14,000,000 FACE FAMINE IN CHINA

Relief Commission in Flooded Areas Count 3000 Dead in One Province.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

PEKING, Aug 14 —From thirteen to fourteen thousand dead and nearly fourteen million affected by famine is the latest estimate of the relief commission of the victims of the floods which have been almost general throughout China Of the dead 3000 perished in Fukan, Chihli province, and the majority of the remainder in Hunan province which suffered more than other parts of the country in the torrential floods

The metropolitan area which includes [illegible] southward in Chihli province, with a population of 4 000 000, has 800,000 who need relief according to the commission In other provinces the number who will have to be cared for is even greater In Hupeh it is estimated there are 4 760 000 so situated, the whole of Chihli 5 100 000 Kiangsi, 210 000 Kwangtung, 2 790 000; Fukien, 170 000 Shantung, 310 000 Honan and Hupeh, 510,000 each

Chekiang province is also reported to have suffered but no detailed reports have been received from there

The relief commission, basing its computation on the famine of 1921 when 14 000 000 sufferers required $57 000 000 Mexican for relief, estimates that the present emergency requires $20 000 000 Mexican Of this the members of the commission estimate that $15 000 000 will be forthcoming from customs and other sources and missionary sources

Thus far the famine sufferers have only been aided at Kalgan, where, with Chinese assistance, the needs of the people have been met

Many of the areas, from which the flood waters have already been drained, will produce winter crops

There have been no refugees except a few hundred, who have arrived in Peking. In the affected districts the people are mostly camping on the dykes and higher ground

STATE CRIME COST IN 1924 80 MILLIONS

California Identification Expert Says Bad Check Loss $5,000,000 Yearly; Increase Is 50 Per Cent

U. C. Savant Tells of Lawlessness of I.W.W.; Advocates Sterilization; San Pedro Strike Hoax Described

"Crime cost the people of California $70 000 000 last year At the rate it is going, it will cost $80-000 000 in 1924"

This was the statement of Clarence A Morrill, superintendent of the California State Identification bureau, in an address today at the Hotel Oakland The sessions of the convention have been changed from the Civic Auditorium to the hotel.

"Bad checks alone took a toll of $5,000,000," said Morrill, "while reports of robberies and other crimes of violence increased from 50 per cent to 90 per cent.

"From the state of California alone 29,000 finger prints and records of criminals arrested have been sent to the state bureau during the fiscal year Of this number 10,000 or nearly half of them had served prior sentences in this state"

U C SAVANT URGES STERILIZATION.

Imprisonment and sterilization of I. W W and other criminals to prevent them producing more of their kind, was proposed by Frederick R Wedge, University of California instructor, who, as an investigator, joined the Industrial Workers of the World, participated in the recent San Pedro strikes and even went to jail with ninety-five others

While imprisoned in the Los Angeles jail for striking Wedge studied the I W W from the inside and learned many of its secrets

[illegible] methods of propaganda used by the I W. W., Wedge declared that on one occasion they chained up a member of their organization to an iron post on a San Pedro street, thus arousing the sympathies of the public to a fever heat When the man, representing "Democracy in Chains had an epileptic fit it proved all the more effective

Wedge said that while the Industrial Worker agitators begged their members not to carry arms or use force but to put up a passive resistance that some members of the organization nevertheless carried weapons

Using scopolamine to dope a suspected criminal and make him confess is of doubtful effectiveness

Hypnotizing accused persons has little value to the criminologist

Blood tests are not sure proofs of parentage

Dream analysis means nothing in the police world

Thus did Dr Albert Schneider dean of the University of California police school shatter some of the popular beliefs

CRIME EXPERT SCOUTS THEORIES.

Dr Schneider introduced the new lie detector invented by Leonarde Keeler, son of the Berkeley poet and declared that, by measuring the emotions in terms of heart action a man could readily be caught in a lie The suspect is seated at the instrument, inflated tourniquets are fastened around an arm and a leg and the pulsations of the blood are conveyed to the recording device by air pressure If the heart beats rapidly a pen scratches rapidly and irregularly on the recording drum thus indicating agitation Measuring the quantity and quality of the agitation is a problem now being worked on

Keeler in demonstrating his device, said that it was invented under the direction of Police Chief August Vollmer

Professor Schneider also told how by having a suspect hold two electrodes of a galvanometer in his hand, while being questioned the emotions were recorded in a dial in terms of electrical variation

Professor Schneider scouted the value of the much heralded scopolamine, a drug used extensively in the east on suspected criminals Scopolamine also used in the cure of narcotic addicts, renders a person incapable of reasoning yet at the same time the person can hear and can reply to questions Some criminologists contend that under the influence of the narcotic all inhibitions are banished and the subject answers questions honestly and frankly without restraint

'I am by no means convinced that this is true' said Dr Schneider 'I have seen several demonstrations of the use of the drug, with the consent of the suspect of course but none have proven satisfactory

Concerning some of the famous cases in which blood tests have been made to prove or disprove the parentage of children, Dr Schneider declared that while physicians had definitely divided the blood of all white people into four groups, absolute proof of par-

WASHINGTON, Aug 14 —Can a woman bob her hair against her husband's wish and get away with it?

Washington barbers who cut the hair and did not touch the sprouting beards of at least 14 male customers today suggested what will be the answer to that question

"You bob your hair and I will grow a beard so long I can tuck it in my overshoes"

The 14 rebel husband so repeated the challenges they had expressed to their now bobbed wives Three of them were young—the others were middle-aged

Randolph Green, who boasts just 30 years, told of the hearthstone battle hair had begun, and of what seems likely to be its end.

"We are going back to the age of hair—we will drive the women back in self-defense by going back ourselves," he said "Then men who are suffering from bob-haired wives eligible for our campaign And we are going to fight against short hair in earnest

"Bobbed hair is for the flappers" he continued hotly 'It is not for women, certainly not for wives of men who must maintain a position of more or less dignity And I told my wife that I would not let her have her hair bobbed threatening to grow a frightful beard if she did

Well, she did and I am And a group of other men who felt the same way are going to take the same revenge I know of 20 who have already begun Others will follow suit And I can guarantee that we'll let our hair grow and grow—if it has to be tucked in our shoes—until they call off the bob"

Counsel For Ex-Champion Counters With Move to Have Fighter Declared Insane; Police Riddle Story

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS

LOS ANGELES, Aug 14 —Kid McCoy, motion picture "extra" and former pugilistic champion, must stand trial for the murder of the woman he says he loved. Announcement that McCoy would be indicted Tuesday for the murder of Mrs Theresa Mors, wealthy antique dealer, was made here today by District Attorney Asa Keyes.

Faced by the failure to open McCoy's sealed lips and balked by McCoy's sister, Mrs. Jennie Thomas, to make her repeat the alleged confession she told police her brother made of the killing, Keyes moved swiftly to bring the accused man to trial

Announcement of the indictment was met by attorneys for McCoy, who accompanied the former prize-fighter to Keyes' office and there told him to refuse to talk, by declaring they will interpose an insanity defense.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

LOS ANGELES, Aug 14 —Evidence to be presented to the county grand jury today will completely disprove the story of Norman Selby (Kid McCoy) that Theresa W. Mors, latest of the ex-pugilist's heart fancies, killed herself according to police detectives in charge of the case

The bullet that killed the divorced wife of Albert Mors, wealthy antique dealer, entered her temple without any accompanying powder burns, an examination showed It must have been fired from a distance of at least three feet, officers say, and that, they declare, would eliminate the suicide theory from the tangle of the affair.

Further, it is pointed out, the body, bore scars and bruises that indicated struggle.

McCoy said Mrs. Mors attempted to stab herself with a butcher-knife before she used the pistol but the police investigators, brushing this statement aside, ask for an explanation of a cut on the lip which drove the teeth far into it, a deep wound under the left breast that might have been caused by a hat-pin, cuts on the left arm and throat, and several other abrasions.

District Attorney Keyes today announced that he was able to completely exonerate Mors of any connection with the death of his divorced wife.

The district attorney also said that Mors had agreed to sign a complaint charging McCoy with the murder.

McCOY'S FRIENDS TO RAISE DEFENSE FUND.

McCoy, as he appeared at Keyes office today, was a different man from the one who was taken into custody yesterday, dazed and incoherent of speech.

The former fighter was smiling and appeared confident as he heard friends laying plans to raise a fund for his legal defense. McCoy, his friends say, is "broke"

MORS WANTS TO HANG McCOY.

LOS ANGELES, Aug 14 —"I want to see 'Kid' McCoy hang, and I would like to spring the trap. He killed my wife. She couldn't have committed suicide"

This was the statement Albert Mors, wealthy manufacturer, who last Thursday divorced Teresa Mors, made today as District Attorney Asa Keyes opened his investigation of the woman's death.

With Mors at the district attorney's office was Mrs Jennie Thomas, sister of McCoy, who, police say, told them her brother had confessed killing Mrs. Mors.

'KILLED HERSELF' M'COY INSISTS UNDER GRILLING

bocker, who has been retained by McCoy.

Knickerbocker said that two weeks ago several business acquaintances of McCoy had consulted on the advisability of swearing out an insanity complaint against the former pugilist. He refused to disclose the identity of these men.

In the background of the mystery is the end of McCoy's tenth marital plan. He was Mrs. Mors' protector, had lived at her apartment and according to his own words planned to marry her. He had been married nine times before—three times to one woman—and had been nine times divorced.

DENIES KILLING HIS BRIDE-ELECT.

McCoy denied killing Mrs. Mors, insisting she had committed suicide in the apartment where the two had been living together as man and wife, following Mrs. Mors' recent divorce from her millionaire husband.

However, a note delivered anonymously to Captain of Detectives Herman Cline said that the pugilist had visited the home of his sister early yesterday morning and had told her he had "shot the only woman he ever loved."

District Attorney Asa Keyes summoned McCoy's sister, Mrs. Jennie Thompson, to appear at his office today and hopes through questioning her to tighten the chain of evidence around the former fighter.

Through long hours of grilling last night, McCoy stuck to his story that Mrs. Mors had committed suicide.

"ONLY WOMAN I EVER REALLY LOVED."

"I wouldn't have killed her," he cried. "I loved her. She is the only woman I ever really loved. Why would I have killed her?"

The first knowledge of Mrs. Mors' death was obtained by police when the former pugilist emerged from the woman's antique shop with a revolver in his hand after he had wounded three occupants of the shop.

McCoy was sullen and defiant when police arrested him and at first refused to answer any of their questions.

Later he told several different stories, all relating to his affairs with Mrs. Mors, but insisting that she had killed herself.

Notes found in the dead woman's apartment of an endearing nature and signed "Sam" may lead to the arrest of another man in connection with the murder, police said. That this man, whose identity police have been unable to determine, may prove the motive for Mrs. Mors' murder, police believe, on the grounds of jealousy on McCoy's part.

A coroner's inquest over the body will be held Friday. Meanwhile, funeral arrangements are being made by Mrs. Mors' mother.

STICKS TO ALIBI ABOUT SUICIDE.

During a two-hour grilling last night McCoy stuck to his statement that Mrs. Mors committed suicide by slashing herself with a butcher knife and then shooting herself through the mouth. McCoy was taken back to his cell at 10 p. m. and announcement made that he would not be questioned again until today.

"Whose gun is this?" was the first question Detective Lieutenant Jarvis asked McCoy.

"That gun was given to me by Hubert Kittle some months before he blew out his brains," McCoy answered.

(Kittle, a former policeman, committed suicide recently after confessing that he was involved in a bank robbery or which three innocent men had been sent to San Quentin penitentiary.

Asked to explain the cuts and bruises on Mrs. Mors' body, McCoy said:

"Well, you see it was this way. We had been out all afternoon. After we got home I cooked a leg o. lamb and a lot of other stuff. You know I am a pretty good cook. Then we sat down to eat.

"All during the afternoon Theresa and I had been talking about her troubles and she was pretty sad. We quarreled a little, too. The butcher knife was on the table. We had been using it to cut bread.

"Without warning, Theresa leaped to her feet and said she was going to end it all. She grabbed the butcher knife and attempted to stab herself in the [illegible]. I saw the blood spurt out and then I grabbed her. We struggled about the room and she cut herself on the left wrist and also slashed her upper lip. She was holding the knife in her right hand and I was trying to get it away from her.

"Some time before she got hold of the knife I had taken my gun from my pocket and placed it on the table. During the struggle for the knife we bumped into the table and with her left hand she seized the revolver and shot herself. That's all there is to it."

Asked where he went after the shooting, McCoy said:

"Well, I remember getting into Theresa's automobile and after [illegible] around for a while calling on my sister, Mrs. Jennie Thompson, in Glendale. I don't remember what I told her or how long I remained in her home. After I left there I went to Mors' house to kill him. He was not at home and then I drove way out on West Third street and went to sleep in the automobile. You know what happened this morning."

"Had you been drinking?" Jarvis asked.

"Well, I remember that I did have a lot to drink in the afternoon before the death of Theresa and then after she was dead I took a couple of great big drinks. I guess that I didn't know what I was doing in the afternoon."

McCoy Wed One Woman Thrice Among 9 Wives

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—A world's champion boxer and a principal in numerous marriages, Norman Selby, known in the prize ring as Kid McCoy, has been before the public eye for the greater part of 30 years.

Embarking upon his ring career in 1891, the Kid, seven years later, won the world's welterweight championship and with it a reputation that for years has held his name high in the sport world.

With the winning of bouts in 1896 that led to his claiming the middleweight title, McCoy started upon a series of travels, one of which led him to South Africa. The trip, the former boxer recounted, netted him $50,000 in the gold of that country, but his winnings helped little his first marriage, which at that time was about to go upon the rocks.

The Kid's last ring work was during the war, when he was instructor of boxing in the Seventy-first regiment, New York.

CAREER AS SLEUTH AND BUSINESS MAN.

Though McCoy is known principally through his marriages and his record as a boxer, he also has led a colorful career in other pursuits, including that of detective, cafe owner and business man.

Selby's marital career began soon after his ring career and lasted much longer. His first wedding occurred when he was 19 years old, [illegible] and when he was 21, according to others—the former boxer being a little reticent about his legal age. Sporting manuals say he was born in 1873.

The various accounts agree that it was in 1895 when he walked to the altar with Lottie Piehler in Middletown, Conn. Selby had known her two days. The marriage lasted a year and a half during which time the kid made an unsupported claim to the middleweight championship of the world by virtue of having defeated Tommy Ryan and Tommy West.

WEDS SAME WIFE THREE TIMES.

Two years after the wreck of his first marriage, Selby met Julia Woodruff, who became wife No. 2, 3 and 4. They were married and divorced three times. The former boxer described the third divorce as the charm.

Four other marriages followed, the last being with Carmen Browder, a dancer known on the stage as Dagmar Delgren. Their romance ended in 1920, three days after the wedding.

In 1922 Selby almost married a ninth time when Mrs. Jacqueline McDowell started from Baltimore to meet him in Los Angeles, but thinking better of it got off the train at Detroit and wired him she was not coming any farther. McCoy's prize ring battles and matrimonial troubles were followed, in recent years, by numerous tilts with the law and brief periods of motion picture acting.

In the film field he planned at one time to make a motion picture depicting his marital career but the project never materialized.

INDICTED IN OIL FLYER, BANKRUPT.

His skirmishes with the Los Angeles authorities began in 1922 when he was indicted in connection with the affairs of the Texas-Atlantic Oil company here, and the Norman Selby company, which investigators alleged was a "dummy" concern camouflaging his oil transactions. McCoy succeeded in explaining these transactions satisfactorily, however, and the indictment was dismissed.

In December, 1922, he filed a petition in bankruptcy with debts of $9056 and assets of three suits of clothing.

Early that month the Kid's apartment was raided by deputy sheriffs who called to investigate the sound of pistol shots. He held them at bay for a time by firing at the door but later admitted them and explained that he did not know they were officers and thought they might be trying to "frame" him. The affair was amicably arranged and no arrest was made.

ENTERS MORS' HOME AS HER "PROTECTOR."

On August 5, last, police were called to the Hollywood home of Mr. and Mrs. Mors, where they found Mors and several friends engaged in heated argument with Mrs. Mors and McCoy. Mors exhibited a bruised face and asked the arrest of his wife on a charge of assault and battery.

He also handed the police a small revolver, saying that he was afraid Mrs. Mors would shoot him with it. McCoy said that he had come to the house at Mrs. Mors' request to protect her from her husband. This affair also ended without an arrest.

Two days later Mors was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from his wife, and it was announced that by the terms of a property settlement Mrs. Mors would receive their antique shop and stock valued at $200,000. Mrs. Mors and McCoy admitted at this time, according to interviewers, that they planned to marry and that McCoy would "go into the antique business."

'I Forgot to Kill Myself,' McCoy Tells Detectives

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—Kid McCoy, veteran of the prize ring whose clever fists fetched him fat purses and wide fighting renown more than a quarter of a century ago sat in a jail cell here today facing the most desperate battle of his career—a fight to free himself of the charge of murdering Mrs. Theresa Mors.

A note signed by McCoy bequeathing all his worldly possessions to his mother, was found in Mrs. Mors' apartment.

"I was going to kill myself," he said, explaining the note, "but —I forgot."

Police declare that Mrs. Mors planned a reconciliation with her former husband, and that McCoy's jealous rage over the impending reconciliation led him to kill her and then to go out seeking to kill Mors.

In his search for Mors he went to the Mors antique shop. Police for a time believed that McCoy had found Mors and killed him. But a search of several hours revealed that Mors was on his way to his shop about the time McCoy entered it, and, but for the fact that his automobile broke down would have reached his place of business in the midst of the former pugilist's shooting orgy.

By the time the machine could be repaired, however, newsboys were shouting extras whose headlines warned Mors that McCoy was amuck. He accordingly remained away until McCoy was safe in a cell.

LOCAL MATERIALS IN ESTUARY TUBE BUILDING URGED

Urging the advisability of having an estuary tube constructed with local materials and by local labor, a committee of the Merchants' Exchange composed of Wilbur Walker, Fred Parsons and C. A. Nesbitt waited upon the board of supervisors today.

Walker pointed out to the board that it was the taxpayers of this community who were paying for construction of the tube and it was only right and just that the materials and labor used in this construction should be from this community also.

MONOPOLY CHARGED.

He suggested that plans and specifications for the work might have something to do with bringing about that condition. Prior to discussing this phase of the matter Walker made the charge that in two instances the city of Oakland had issued specifications which left it open only for one manufacturer of culverts to comply with them and that in another instance only one type of automobile would comply with the specifications.

LOCAL MATERIALS URGED.

Parsons talked along the same line, explaining how the use of foreign steel or concrete in construction of the tube would take many thousands of dollars out of the community. Both speakers were assured by Chairman William J. Hamilton and Supervisors Stoars, Mullins and Heyer that it was and had been the policy of the supervisors to make use of Alameda county products and labor whenever possible, but that the board was forced by law to advertise for bids and to accept the lowest figure whether this firm was local or otherwise.

The board received a copy of a resolution adopted by the Valley Crest Improvement club of Hayward, suggesting that the board map out a route for the extension of the Skyline boulevard to connect with the Castro valley highway.

GOVERNOR TELLS POLICY TOWARD DEATH SENTENCES

"New Evidence Only Condition on Which I Will Override," He Says.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

MONTEREY, Aug. 14. — His attitude toward capital punishment was explained by Governor Friend W. Richardson during a brief address he delivered as the principal guest of honor here last night at a dinner given by Mayor B. F. Wright.

"There is no reason for the governor of any state to commute to life imprisonment a death sentence unless new evidence is introduced," said the governor. "The law makes full provision for the rights of persons sentenced and there is a final court of appeal and I do not see why the governor should go above the law and the courts in these matters."

Governor Richardson made special reference to the case of a man, whose name he did not mention, who was sentenced to death from Los Angeles. He said he had thousands of letters on his desk from people pleading with him to commute the man's sentence.

"But I am not going to do it," the governor said. It was believed he referred to Isaac Wolfgang, convicted of killing a policeman when the policeman attempted to arrest him on a charge of stealing milk.

The chief executive said only once since he had been governor had he seen fit to interfere with a sentence of death and that was in the case of a youth under age. And in that case the governor said, the law provides that no person under age in California shall be sentenced to hang. Governor Richardson said it was he who first discovered the boy was under age and called attention to the law.

Several civic and military officials attended the dinner, which brought to a close a day of military maneuvres and national guard inspection at the Del Monte training camp. Officers present included Major General Charles G. Morton, commander of the ninth corps area of the U. S. Army; Brigadier General J. E. Kuhn, Adjutant General R. E. Mittelstaedt and General J. J. Boree.

WOMAN AILING FOR A YEAR

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Happy Results

Newcastle, Pa.—"I was all run down and everybody thought I was going into a decline. I had been ailing for a year with pains in my right side so that I could hardly stand on my feet. When I walked I felt as if something was falling. I was not able to do any work and had a nurse most of the time. She spoke to me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I gave it a fair trial. Some women think one bottle should cure them, but I did not stop at that. I took more and got better and am able ever since to do my own housework. There was a time, when I would complain of not feeling well, that my husband would say, 'Go to the doctor.' But now he will tell me to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's, and it has always helped me. I have had druggists tell me that they had something better, but they don't tell me that now, for I take no other. I have been taking the Vegetable Compound now for five years. Any woman who cares to call or write, I will be glad to tell her how it helped me."—Mrs. MABEL LIST SHERBAIN, 115 Newell Ave., Newcastle, Pa.

NO TRACE OF BANK LOOT IS FOUND ON FARM OF SUSPECT

Visit to Ranch Strengthens Case Against Pair, But Discloses No Booty.

No trace of the loot of the $31,000 Clovis bank robbery was found on the Vacaville fig ranch of Thomas J. Griffin and Katherine Ryne, who were captured in Oakland and charged by the Fresno authorities with complicity in the crime.

District Attorney George Lovejoy and Sheriff Jones of Fresno county returned with Mrs. Ryan to Oakland today after completing a search of the Vacaville farm, which they said had been purchased by Mrs. Ryan after the bank robbery on February 5. They announced that they had discovered evidence to strengthen their case against the couple, but had not found any of the bank loot.

Griffin was taken to Fresno last night by Deputy Sheriff O. J. King, who effected his capture after lying in wait for him for 74 days in the safe deposit vaults of the Bank of Italy in Oakland.

When Griffin and Mrs. Ryan were brought face to face in the county jail Tuesday night, they acted like perfect strangers. They were identified, however by the proprietor of an Oakland apartment house as a couple that had lived in the apartment as man and wife.

DRY AGENTS SEIZE $75,000 LIQUOR IN RAID ON RANCH

Huge Store of Imported Stock Found in Barn at Salada Beach; Owner Arrested.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14 — When prohibition agents, led by Oscar Jensen, broke down the door of a barn on the ranch of Jack Morey, at Salada Beach, late yesterday, they found the room stacked to the roof with cases and racks of liquor. Champagne, whisky, Vermouth and rare French wines were included in the stock, valued at more than $75,000, which was confiscated.

Morey, who is believed to be one of the heads of the "million dollar bootlegging syndicate," was arrested on charges of conspiracy, violation of the prohibition act, sale and possession of liquor and maintaining a public nuisance. Proceedings will be started immediately, according to Prohibition Director Samuel Rutter to procure the closing of his roadhouse and ranch by abatement.

In addition to Morey, Edward MacDonald 16 and C. Glazier were arrested as accomplices.

The prohibition agents discovered a whole fleet of barges, small boats and launches, which they claim was used to bring the liquor from ships lying twelve miles off shore. A complete wireless telephone system connecting the farm and the ships was also found.

No automobile trucks were discovered. Rutter explained this by saying that Morey acted only as a wholesaler.

MAN CONVICTED OF MURDER ATTEMPT IN SECOND TRIAL

Prisoner Charges Prosecutor With 'Framing' Him in Violent Scene.

SAN JOSE, Aug. 14.—George Baldwin, local painter, charged with assault with intent to commit murder on the person of his brother-in-law, Arthur Depley, on June 28 last, was found guilty by a jury in the court of Superior Judge F. B. Brown. The trial was Baldwin's second, the jury in the first case disagreeing. Sentence will be passed next Saturday.

While the jury was deliberating, Baldwin sprang at Deputy District Attorney Frank J. Waterhouse and attempted to strike him, screaming, "You———, you framed on me." Deputy Sheriffs Earl Hamilton and E. A. Raymond, detailed as special bailiffs during the Baldwin trial, seized Baldwin and prevented the attack.

Baldwin, according to evidence presented, shot at Depley while the latter was in bed at his home in Villa avenue here on June 28 last. Baldwin claimed that he was compelled to do so in order to protect his home.

City Puts Limit on Its Aged Boiler to Protect Woodyard

As a result of tryouts of the aged steam boiler in the municipal woodyard, orders went forth from the city hall today that the pressure of this second-hand, 1880 model of brownie shall not be more than eight pounds.

The weak spot in the boiler, it is pointed out, faces the living-room of the woodyard, and city officials assert that they do not wish to get rid of their customers that way.

The boiler was once fine and handsome. Without effort it stood a 140-pound pressure for years, after which it was placed in a scrap heap and forgotten until the street department dug it up somewhere and hauled it to the woodyard. J. Knox Polk, superintendent of the woodyard, decided it was not only a hot-water heater, but could furnish steam for the steam laundry. Experiments were tried out with the steam pressure.

At fifty pounds it still clung together.

At sixty pounds the roof remained on the woodyard.

At seventy-five pounds nothing happened.

At eighty pounds nothing still happened.

"Let us let well enough alone," say the steam experts of the city. "We like to keep our little wood yard."

By a new rule at the woodyard special watch will be kept on the pressure gauges hereafter.

PLAYGROUNDS OF OAKLAND REPORT 45,000 INCREASE

Baseball Most Popular Sport In City's Recreation Centers.

Baseball is still the most popular of all favorite outdoor sports, according to statistics compiled for July by Jay Nash, superintendent of the recreation department. He shows that the attendance at all playgrounds was 45,000 more last month than in July of 1923, or 159,000 in all.

The popularity of the various sports is shown by the using of the recreation department fields, as follows:

Baseball	6,300 games
Volley ball	2,700 games
Basketball	1,000 games
Football	1,400 games

The Nash report shows that during July 17,000 persons used the boats on Lake Merritt. This includes the launch trips.

The recreation department is now preparing new folders for 1924-5.

WARNER'S FUNERAL HELD.

SLAYER SUSPECT TO BE EXAMINED REGARDING SANITY

Harry McDonald, Accused of Girl's Murder, to Face Alienists' Quiz.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—Harry McDonald was ordered examined today by alienists to determine whether or not he is insane and, therefore, not responsible for the murder last week of Andrietta Hildebrand of Oakland. He was charged with murder last night, and today his case was continued in the police court for one week to permit of the examination as to his sanity.

Meantime the police discovered, they say, that McDonald lay in wait for his victim in a room adjoining her apartment all Thursday night, smoking many cigarettes. It is believed that she was slain shortly after her return home. An earring which McDonald is said to admit is his, was found in the room. The newsboy who sold him a paper early Saturday morning is said to have heard him remark on reading of the murder, "That's wrong, it happened at 1 o'clock."

The police learned today that McDonald had an Anapolis appointment, believed to have been obtained through the influence of former Secretary McAdoo, and that he was actually studying for Harvard.

Lemon Juice Whitens Skin

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Advertisement.

New Fire House, Equipment Asked

ALAMEDA, Aug. 14. — Recommendation that the city council purchase a hook and ladder apparatus and construct a new fire house at Lincoln park are included in the arguments for improvement of the Alameda fire department advanced by Fire Chief Walter Steinmetz today in his report to C. Chief Steinmetz estimates the cost of an additional hook and ladder apparatus at $10,000 and the construction of a fire house at $12,000. Both measures, he argues, will materially increase the efficiency of the department.

Announcing the Opening of Our Piano Department

No home is complete without good music.

Naturally interested in those things which transform a house into a real home, Breuner's have added to their already very complete line of home furnishings, the piano.

Many well-known makes have been offered to us and after due consideration and consultation with piano experts, we have chosen the nationally recognized Kimball piano. In so doing, we are confident that the Breuner policy of quality and service can always be maintained.

We are very fortunate in obtaining this valued agency and through an agreement with the Kimball Co. on quantity buying, we are in the position to quote factory prices on these pianos. This will naturally make a great saving to the buying public.

For our opening, we have made a very careful selection of styles and woods, and the whole line, from the small upright to the reproducing grand, presents a line which is decidedly out of the ordinary.
Of course the usual Breuner policy of easy payments will be in effect in the purchasing of your piano.

Come in and let us demonstrate these pianos for you. Our piano salon will be situated on the third floor.

We extend you a most hearty invitation to visit this section.

REDMEN DISCUSS PER CAPITA TAX IN ANNUAL COUNCIL

Open Air Installation Service And Masquerade Ball Held Yesterday.

SANTA CRUZ, Aug. 14.—Outstanding features of the fifty-eighth council of the Improved Order of Redmen, in session here, are the unsettled discussion of the per capita tax question, which looms as the principal controversial subject slated to come before the council and the question of [illegible] the budget for the coming year. It develops that many members of the order are somewhat peeved because it has been reported that an attempt will be made to raise the amount of the tax, which the same members think already too high. The report of the credentials committee was filed at an early hour. The [illegible] and the convention got down to business at once. A [illegible] other committee reports were heard.

During the [illegible] session of the [illegible]

The convention [illegible] was held in the Casino ballroom. It was a masquerade, in which Indian costumes predominated.

Yesterday the installation service was held at Wagner's park, an open air amphitheater of natural formation, which provided a setting for one of the most imposing ceremonies of the whole convention.

EASTBAY HIKES and HIKERS

BY PROF. J. WALKER

"I had been following thus for many hours the blind path, harsh, dark some, and utterly lonely. At last, as I stormed a ragged crest, gaining a height that overtopped the firs,—as I looked somewhat wearily across the solemn surges of the forest, suddenly above their sombre green appeared Tacoma. Large and neighbor it stood, so near that every jewel of its snow-fields seemed to send me a separate ray; yet not so near but that I could with one look take in its whole image, from clear-cut edge to edge. All around it the dark evergreen rose like a ruff; above them the mountain splendors swelled statelier for the contrast."

—Theodore Winthrop.

ACCUSED JAILED AS COURT FREES ON OTHER COUNT

Second Arson Charge Made By Housekeeper Claimant to Burned Home.

Although released on a writ of habeas corpus Earl Williams is again in custody today, having been re-arrested on a charge of arson yesterday afternoon in Superior Judge L. S. Church's court. Williams, originally arrested on an arson charge, was ordered freed on the grounds that there was not sufficient evidence to hold him.

The original complaint, sworn to by Battalion Chief F. J. Sands, charged that Williams set fire to premises at 5312 Calaveras avenue. No attempt was made to collect insurance on the property, it was shown, and the court held that there was no evidence to show intent to fire the premises.

The new complaint was sworn to yesterday by Mrs. Lillian Barton, who alleges that she and not Williams is the owner of the property, involved in a suit pending before Superior Judge James G. Quinn.

In the suits each lays claim to the property.

Mrs. Barton alleged in her suit that Williams leased the premises from her for $30 a month, hired her as housekeeper for himself and his three children at $20 a month in addition.

Williams explains that the title of the property is in the name of Mrs. Barton but that it really belongs to him. He says they decided to make this their mutual home, she acting as his housekeeper without compensation for the privilege of having a home for herself and her child. She then promised to marry him, he says, and he transferred ownership of the property to her in expectation of her fulfillment of this promise.

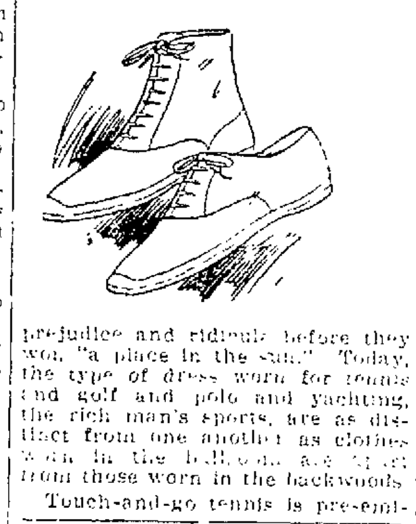
Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

YOUR TENNIS SHOE.

In the days when sport was spindly in the legs and sportsmen were banana-fingered, there were no clearly defined styles for different games. One dressed much as the leather-faced fisherman does—in any old thing or anything old. Indeed, the tyro was almost ashamed to be well-turned-out lest the difference between his get-up and his game become too noticeable. Sporting clothes have had to take many a knock-down from prejudice and ridicule before they won "a place in the sun." Today, the type of dress worn for tennis and golf and polo and yachting, the rich man's sports, are as distinct from one another as clothes worn in the ballroom are distinct from those worn in the backwoods.



Touch-and-go tennis is preeminently the young man's game, or, at least, you must have played it. Therefore, the styles for tennis are essentially young men's styles with the freedom and flexibility that this sport demands. Instead of white flannel trousers, gray flannels are now often worn or white duck "slacks." The favorite shirt is that of white cheviot having wide elbow-length sleeves and a soft collar left open at the throat. A very practical garment is that made with shirt and drawers in one combination style. This prevents the shirt from riding up as it has a disconcerting trick of doing during play. Another type of shirt has a lengthwise expanding pleat down the center for unhindered arm-swing and body-play. The tennis belt is of white webbing cloth or white silk finished with a buckle and leather tongue. Brightly striped belts in blazer colors are also much worn this season.

Coming down to hosiery and shoes, plain or ribbed socks of cashmere or worsted, not silk, should be worn, as silk is slippery and non-absorbent. Two types of tennis shoes are reproduced here: white or brown canvas or duck—high and low. Each is preferred by some players. The low shoe, popularly termed "sneaker," is made [illegible]. The [illegible] which makes them extremely pliable. These shoes are 5 inches high and weigh only 15 to 19 ounces. Some high shoes are provided with re-inforcements at the inside ankles. Only the best qualities should be chosen for comfort and wear.

CONTRACTOR AND WIDOW WED WITH WIFE'S CONSENT

Arrest For Bigamy Upsets Romance of Invalid Mate and Pretty Nurse.

SAN FRANCISCO Aug. 14.—An invalid, her husband and a [illegible] and pretty nurse were the chief actors of an amazing situation uncovered yesterday when Sgt. Ralph Swickard announced the arrest of Martin A. Miller, wealthy contractor, on a charge of bigamy.

The nurse, Mrs. Dolphine Schiller, 20-year-old widow of a war veteran, has been living at Miller home on the outskirts of San Rafael, caring for [illegible] wife. She fell in love [illegible] and he in turn, fell in love with her.

Mrs. Miller No. 1, believing that she will die soon, urged her husband and the nurse to be married, "because you need some one to give you [illegible] you crave, and I want my husband to be happy." And so on Saturday, in accordance with her wishes, they were wed in San Rafael, returning to the Highlands to receive Mrs. Miller's blessing and spend their honeymoon under the same roof with her.

Now enters Rose McLeod, 15-year-old sister of the new bride. She saw the ring on her sister's finger, forced a confession from her and reported the affair to Probation Officer Thomas O'Connor of San Rafael. A warrant was sworn out and Miller arrested on a charge of bigamy.

In the meantime the two wives, their arms about each other, sit at home, whispering words of comfort and questioning the right of the world to interfere in a purely family question.

Husband's Alleged Cruel Acts Listed Chronologically

A chronological list of cruelties perpetrated by William Broyles, a janitor, against his wife Rosa are [illegible] complaint filed by [illegible] today.

June 3—Came home intoxicated, beat and scratched her [illegible] her car.

June 13—Tore her clothes on the floor and said: "Now you get out. There are plenty of other women that are just as good as you are."

July 1—Broke a dress form which cost a raise.

July 13—Had her jewelry and declared he knew nothing about it, intended to sell her and said: "I like you worse than the devil."

These are only a few of the counts of which Broyles is guilty, according to the wife who says he frequently kept late hours and became intoxicated.

CLUBMEN ATTEND BURIAL RITES OF VERE W. HUNTER

Lumberman and Past President of Kiwanis Gets Many Tributes to Memory.

Funeral services for Vere W. Hunter, lumberman of northern California and past president of the Kiwanis Club of Oakland were held this afternoon from the Oakland Chapel. Hunter died Tuesday at his home, 882 Portal avenue. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Gladys Komp Hunter and his parents Mr. and Mrs. David B. Hunter of Berkeley.

In tribute to his memory, the San Francisco Hoo Hoo attended their meeting today to attend the funeral in a body. The Kiwanis Club was also largely represented.

Born in Iowa, Hunter has lived most of his life in California. He is a graduate of the University of California and was active last year in promoting the organization of the local chapter of the alumni association. He was chairman of the [illegible] organization composed of the executives of the ten leading service clubs of the city.

Hunter was head of the Hunter Lumber company, which was recently sold to the Hogan interests. When stricken with illness he was engaged in founding the Cole-Hunter Lumber company with offices in San Francisco. Both these concerns, out of respect to Hunter, closed their yards this afternoon.

Hunter was the son of David B. Hunter, a pioneer lumberman in the Eastbay cities who retired several years ago. He was 46 years old.

Mrs. Mary Davidson, sister of Robert M. Fitzgerald, is seriously ill in Providence Hospital. She has been in poor health for the past year. Mrs. Davidson has made her home at Hotel Oakland.

Man Admits He Stole Auto So Wife Could Get Dress

Because his wife needed her clothing which she left in Los Angeles when they moved up here, Andrew Sevadjia picked out a good looking automobile standing on the street and without the formality of asking the owner's permission drove the car to Los Angeles. He was arrested before he could get the clothing and return the car. These facts were revealed today in Superior Judge Fred V. Wood's court where Sevadjia has pleaded guilty and asked for probation.

The report of L. D. Compton, probation officer, reveals the fact that May Sevadjia, 17-year-old bride of the defendant, 1356 Geary street, San Francisco, apparently unconscious of the grim humor of the situation, told of how she had left the southern city in a great hurry because of the serious illness of her mother. She told of how she had left most of her clothing in the southern city and was in dire need of the garments. Sevadjia's machine was in the garage, she said and she could not wait until it was overhauled before getting her clothes. So she urged Sevadjia to find some way of getting them, she said, and he just took the machine.

The car was the property of Joseph Johnson, engineer at the blind home, and was taken from Seventeenth and Franklin streets.

Judge Wood continued the case until Saturday morning, ordering Sevadjia in the mean time to write him a letter telling him the details of the offense and his reasons for committing it and also give a detailed history of his life, the court holding that there is not sufficient evidence of his past at hand.

Mrs. Carlos G. White is president of the local club.

Judge Wood Scores Law on Auto Theft

The law regarding the taking of an automobile without the owner's consent was criticized today by Superior Judge Fred V. Wood who declared that the legislature in making the penalty a state prison offense without a chance for a county jail sentence had erred. The question arose when John Reposa, recently convicted was up for [illegible]

A motion for probation was continued for a week with the indication that it will be granted.

EASTBAY FERRIED TO S. F. ON TIDES, PIONEER RECALLS

Carroll Tells of Lost Pony When Father Was Held On Bar All Night.

In the old days, when the ferry had to wait on the tide, to get stuck on the bar meant the possibility of being "stuck" in other ways. What happened to his father, stranded on a trans-bay trip in 1863, is told by Tom Carroll, Oakland pioneer, in today's story of early Oakland events.

By TOM CARROLL.

Waiting twenty minutes for another ferry is nothing like waiting for the tide to rise in order to cross the bay. Nor is it near so costly, at least not so much as in the way it cost my father many years ago, in 1863.

At that time there were two side-wheelers operating on the bay: the "Flora Temple" and the "San Antone." Both boats were staunchly built and of fairly good size, drawing such a depth of water that they could only make the trip across the bay during high tide, once in the forenoon, and then in the afternoon. Otherwise they ran the hazard of becoming grounded upon a bar which has since been dredged away.

One summer my father suffered a great spiritual and financial loss because of the bar and an overventuresome captain. We had had an exceptionally good hay crop that year, and had quite a bit of it sold in San Francisco. In those days it was "bring your crop and get your money." So early in the morning, my father and his helpers loaded several tons of hay on the "San Antone" and he went over with it to San Francisco, so that he could collect the money upon delivery. The boat reached San Francisco without mishap; my father delivered the hay, and received $1200 for what he sold on that day. He didn't have to hurry when he went to the ferry to go home, as the captain was a friend of his and had agreed to wait for him. But when my father reached the ferry, it was far past the scheduled time, and the tide was going out.

"Shall we try to make it, or lay here over night?" the captain asked the passengers. "We haven't much on board to eat, in case we get stuck on the bar."

However, my father was uneasy with the $1200 on his person, and did not wish to stay over night in San Francisco if he could help it.

"Let's not waste time talking," he said, "but hurry and try to make it before it really gets too late." The captain was anxious to try his skill, anyway, so it was agreed upon that they start immediately.

But they had started too late, and when they reached the "narrows," a grating noise told them that they were on the bar, and there they would have to stay until morning.

To pass the time away, [illegible] was out of the question—as long as there was a pack of cards and a lantern on the boat. And here is where my father suffered his spiritual and financial loss! He entered a poker fray with Derby and William Bray and, when morning came, his $1200 had been distributed to many hands.

When my father returned home and told us what had happened, I broke into tears, because I knew then that I wasn't to get a Shetland pony that he had promised me. But my mother just remained silent for a few minutes, and then—!

Anyway, had there been a woman's suffrage cause at that time, it would have been everlastingly glorified, at least in my father's mind!

HERBERT SACK, newly elected president of the Retail Grocers' Association of Alameda county, who was installed at the annual meeting held Tuesday night.

Administrator Is Sued by Legatee For Burial Cost

The funeral prepared by George W. Brusseau for Charles Kruse, who died at the county hospital on April 6, 1923, was stopped by Public Administrator Albert E. Hill and delayed two days so that he could be buried in a "proper manner."

This was the declaration today of Hill in explanation of a suit filed against him as administrator of the estate by Brusseau who claims money due him for the funeral he arranged and asks that he be given clear title to ten acres of land left by Kruse or judgment for $1420.

Kruse made a will leaving his property to Brusseau, according to Walter Eliassen, attorney for Hill, but it was not properly dated. Judge James G. Quinn decided the document was a valid deed, however, and gave the property to Brusseau. Eliassen says he is representing heirs in Germany who intend to appeal from Judge Quinn's decision.

Hill says that Brusseau was burying Kruse in a cheap pine box and in a cheap plot of ground when he discovered that Kruse had left property and so had him buried in a "proper manner."

Deserted Wife Given Decree of Divorce

"I am not going far because I have not got enough money."

This was the wording of a note left by Robert L. Cox, former Oakland restaurant proprietor when he left Oakland for Amarillo, Texas, in company with Cora Downs, Lizzie M. Cox testified today before Superior Judge J. S. Koford, who granted her an interlocutory decree of divorce.

Mrs. Cox testified that she traced the couple, who took the family automobile and a considerable sum of money, she said, as far as Kansas City, Mo., where Cox sold the car. Later she located them in the Texas city, where they are living as man and wife, the witness charged.

Wife Gave Sons His Property, Man Says

Community property was deeded by his divorced wife, Mrs. Hilda A. Johnson, to her sons by a former marriage to cheat him out of his interest, it is alleged by Axel Johnson in a suit demanding that the deeds be cancelled and that he be awarded his share of the property, [illegible] they were married for many years and during that time the property was purchased with community funds. They were divorced last March, Johnson says.

Lee Dennison, a traveling salesman, has ripped the clothes off his wife, Helen, spanked her, dragged her into the dining room and compelled her to eat although she was ill, and has been guilty of numerous other cruelties, according to the wife's divorce suit. Maimed Boy Sues Ice Company for $77,000

When an iron gate owned by the Sanitary Ice and Storage company fell upon 13-year-old Victor Vannucchi, August 15, 1923, the boy received injuries which crippled him for life, it is alleged in two suits filed against the company for $77,000 in damages. The boy, through his father as guardian, is asking $51,000 damages, claiming he received a triple fracture of the hip and other injuries. The father is asking $26,000 for the loss of his son's service during the remainder of his life and for medical costs.

THE OLDEST TONIC IN THE WORLD IS OIL OF THE OLIVE AND PORT WINE —PORTOLIVE

REV. SPARKS IS BELIEVED SLAIN IN HOLY LAND CRUISE

"Praying Carpenter's" Little Craft Found Deserted Off Zamboanga.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

MANILA, Aug. 14.—The attempt of Rev. Ira Sparks to sail from Honolulu to the Holy Lands in a 24-foot sailboat is believed to have ended in death.

Alone in the small boat, Rev. Sparks successfully navigated the Pacific from Honolulu to Mindanao. Five months ago he sailed from the east coast of Mindanao for Singapore.

Nothing more was heard of him until today, when a report was brought in that his boat had been found deserted last week near Zamboanga.

Sparks is believed to have been murdered as dried blood was found on the little boat, indicating its owner and navigator had been slain.

Sparks was known as the "praying carpenter" of Peru, Indiana. He managed to farm there for several years, but abandoned it and later spent several years in Alaska. Last year he appeared in San Francisco, where he built himself a packing box of 31 cubic feet size and shipped himself in the hold of the liner Taiyo Maru for Honolulu. Lack of air and food forced him to announce his presence to the ship's officers near the Hawaiian Islands.

He was arrested there, but released when the authorities could find no charge to place against him. He then announced his plan of going on to the Holy Land in a small boat, and at once started construction of his 24-foot craft.

Sparks' mother and his two small sons live in Peru, Ind., but have heard little from him since 1922.

WOMAN JAILED ON CHARGE OF WHITE SLAVERY

First of Sex Indicted as Co-conspirator When She Was Willing Victim.

Mrs. Emma Crommie, 28, 1007 Stannage street, Albany was taken into custody by United States Marshal Ralph upon a Federal warrant after a Federal grand jury in San Francisco, returned an indictment charging her with conspiracy to violate the Mann act. This is the first time that a woman has been held to be a violator of the "white slave" law if she was a willing victim.

H. J. Trafford, who was indicted for violation of the Mann act for alleged transportation of Mrs. Crommie to Portland, Ore., and return, is now at liberty on bond.

Assistant United States Attorney Barton D. Keyston presented evidence before the Grand Jury to show that Trafford had been a roomer in the Crommie home in Oakland. When Crommie accused Trafford of being too attentive to his wife and ordered him from the house, Keyston said, Mrs. Crommie decided to go with him, relinquishing to her husband all claims to their three small children.

MACLAFFERTY FAILS TO SATISFY ON CHILD LABOR

After Hearing Explanation By Congressman, Labor Body Endorses Carter.

After James H. MacLafferty had failed to satisfy with his explanations of his attitude on child labor, organized labor last evening endorsed the candidacy of Commissioner Albert E. Carter for Congress. The endorsement was given through the Non-Partisan Federation of Labor for Political Action, representing the Central Labor Council, the Building Trades Council and the Railroad Brotherhood. More than 40,000 families and upward of 90,000 union voters are represented in the organization and its affiliations.

A feature of the contest of both candidates for this endorsement, which is considered to be one of the deciding factors in the election, was the explanation of MacLafferty of his attitude and conduct on the child labor bill. When he appeared before the Building Trades Council he was asked to explain the challenge of Commissioner Carter which he had previously ignored. This challenge asked the candidate to explain his consistency in declaring child labor to be a "national shame" inasmuch as he was the local president of the Better America Federation, which is committed to 14-year-old child labor. In Congress MacLafferty led the fight to legalize 16-year-old child labor.

"I felt that some of you would not understand this and I want to make it clear," explained MacLafferty. "It is true that I was an official of the Better America Federation. When I was an official it stood for constructive and idealistic legislation. Later on I found that I was not in sympathy with its purposes, and so I resigned."

Under questioning MacLafferty explained that he resigned two and a half years ago, when he made his first campaign for Congress. The office of the federation, however, still remains in his building.

George Durand, business representative of the Carmen's Union, is the president of the Nonpartisan Federation of Labor for Political Action; Wm. R. King of the Locomotive Engineers, is vice-president; Wm. A. Spooner of Central Labor Council, secretary, and G. V. Manning of the Central Labor Council, treasurer. The executive committee which handled the endorsement is composed of Stanton W. Lore, chairman; William R. King, Sidney Jacobs of the Machinists' Union, T. Whitman of the Building Trades Council and William A. Spooner.

Other candidates endorsed were Frank Carr for state senator, Aaron Turner for the assembly, Mrs. Saylor of Berkeley and John Gelder.

"Outside of repudiating the Better America Federation and denouncing its principles MacLafferty tried to make good on his child labor attitude by producing a photographic copy of a letter which he received from the author of the child labor bill," explained one of the members of the executive committee in commenting upon the endorsement of Carter. "It is a known fact that the country generally has been greatly disappointed in the 68th Congress, and the members apparently feeling that they could not secure many endorsements at home got together and agreed to endorse each other. You knew we have the advantage of maintaining a bureau at Washington, and we know exactly what the congressmen and representatives are doing. We do not have to take their word or their letters for it.

"MacLafferty also produced another photographic copy of a letter from the chairman of the rivers and harbors committee complimenting him on his interest in the Oakland waterfront. This letter failed to impress because organized labor is looking for results in harbor development, not letters from Congressmen telling each other how good they are."

'The Fight Is On,' A. F. L. Chieftains Tell La Follette

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Officially notifying Senator La Follette of the endorsement given his presidential candidacy and that of his running mate, Senator Wheeler, of Montana, by the American Federation of Labor's executive council, a committee headed by Frank Morrison, secretary of the federation, declared today that "every honorable effort" would be exerted to bring about election of the independent candidates.

"We are instructed to say to you for President Gompers," Morrison told Senator LaFollette, "that we are for you and for Senator Wheeler, that we are for you without restriction, and [illegible] 1924 presidential [illegible] and platforms of the two old parties are concerned, we have burned our bridges. The fight is on."

Senator LaFollette expressed his appreciation and said he would make a more formal and extended reply in the near future.

News of Politicians

Commissioner Albert E. Carter opened his Berkeley headquarters yesterday at 2139 Center street with Mrs. F. B. Schuyler in charge. In a statement addressed to the Berkeley voters Commissioner Carter declared:

"The interests of the communities around the Eastbay district are one. What benefits one benefits all. You people of Berkeley had one demonstration of this community spirit last year when the fire swept over your hills.

"I am making my campaign upon the issue that the greatest asset that we of the Eastbay district have is to be found in our waterfront. The Eastbay district is at the gateway of the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys. All of the products of these two great regions are now passing through our district to San Francisco, where they are loaded into vessels.

"Now then, a community can only go so far in developing its waterfront resources. There comes a time when a community needs federal assistance. In eight years Los Angeles received $8,000,000 federal appropriations. My experience as commissioner of public works has given me an understanding of our waterfront needs. As president of the Port Captains' Association of the Pacific Coast I have more than a local understanding.

"To properly take care of the business that is demanding accommodation it will be necessary to utilize every foot of our Eastbay waterfront, from San Leandro to the Contra Costa line. It is more than an Oakland problem. It is a district problem, and the entire waterfront should be developed as a whole. My experience in waterfront matters is at the disposal of the citizens of Berkeley in meeting their waterfront problems.

A "La Follette for President" meeting will be held this evening on the City Plaza, it was announced today. One of the principal speakers of the meeting will be Attorney Daniel O'Connell of San Francisco. Another feature will be a specially arranged musical program.

Assemblyman Frank W. Anderson of the 39th district yesterday pledged himself to continue his work for the development of the western waterfront of Oakland, and for the ratification of the constitutional amendment against child labor in the United States.

James H. MacLafferty, in his address Saturday evening before members of the Women's Auxiliary to the Railway Mail association, will explain his position on harbor improvement. The gathering will be held in the home of E. N. Benton, 2936 Mission street. MacLafferty introduced Charles Satchell Morris Jr. of Norfolk, Va., distinguished orator and leader, to an audience at the Civic Auditorium Tuesday evening. According to the "California Voice," Morris has declared for the candidacy of Senator La Follette.

At the regular meeting of the Melrose Republican club Monday evening the following officers were elected: William Bontain, president; Fred F. Morse, first vice-president; Ivor Williams, treasurer, and William Moody, secretary. The club was unanimous in its endorsement of A. E. Carter for Congress, E. H. Christian for state senator and Edward J. Smith for assemblyman for the 36th district. At the regular meeting to be held next Monday night a campaign committee of 100 will be appointed to further the interests of these candidates.

Candidate for congressional and county offices will give brief talks following the regular meeting of the Buena Vista-Peralta Improvement association of the Northbrae community Monday evening, August 18. The meeting, which is called for 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Jefferson school, Rose and Sacramento streets, will be addressed by the following candidates:

For Congress, A. E. Carter, J. H. MacLafferty; [illegible] for assembly, Chas. [illegible] J. E. Pemberton, Max [illegible] for supervisor, First district, R. V. Richmond; Fourth [illegible] Stuart R. Bowes, E. S. [illegible] C. Staats.

Sufficient seats are available to accommodate a large crowd, according to C. A. [illegible], president of the association.

Congressman MacLafferty appeared in the role of a fight referee at a smoker of the Paint and Varnish [illegible] last evening. After officiating in two bouts MacLafferty paid his respects to his opponent in the congressional fight.

"Any man who thinks he is going to Congress and not away with millions of dollars for waterfront development is a fool," he declared.

The remark aroused comment on the part of some of the paint men who had recently returned from Los Angeles, where $8,000,000 in federal appropriations have been received during the past seven years as the result of the efforts of the Los Angeles congressmen, whereas Oakland has received but $2,000,000 in such appropriations [illegible] history of its waterfront.

Assemblywoman Anna L. Saylor of Berkeley was the principal speaker this afternoon at a meeting of the women members of College Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, College avenue and Russell streets. Hilles Reports N. Y., Jersey For Coolidge

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Charles D. Hilles of New York, vice-chairman of the national committee, called on President Coolidge today and reported that a preliminary survey of New York state had shown "a most satisfactory trend toward the Republican presidential ticket."

Attention in New Jersey, he said, was centered now on the Republican senatorial contest, but he expressed the opinion that the Coolidge-Dawes ticket would carry that state.

Hamilton F. Kean, national committeeman for New Jersey and candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination in that state, also conferred with the president and he also predicted the Coolidge-Dawes ticket would receive "wholehearted support" in New Jersey.

JOHNSON SAYS STATE ISSUE IS ON LEGISLATURE

Senator Remains Silent On Issues Involved in National Campaign.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—Senator Hiram Johnson broke his silence regarding state politics today with a statement denouncing the "corporate interests," which he charged seek to control the election of the next state legislature.

The senior Republican United States senator from California made no reference to his stand in the national campaign, refusing to declare for either President Coolidge or Senator La Follette. He brushes national issues aside by declaring that the only issue in California is the election of legislators "not controlled by corporate interests." Those legislators pledged to the Richardson economy program are "controlled" while the group pledged to the Johnson organization are the only ones worthy of confidence. On his return from the East Johnson announced that he would shortly issue a statement on national issues. Much surprise was expressed today that he made no mention of the national situation except to declare that the legislative issue should be divorced from the national contest.

Johnson's statement specifically mentioned Harry Chandler, Los Angeles publisher, the Better American Federation and Governor Friend William Richardson, and charged they are opposing the election or re-election of legislators "who have shown themselves to be working for the interests of the people."

"The primaries on August 26 should be divorced from the national contest," Johnson said. "There is just one issue in California namely, whom and what shall California's legislature represent.

Governor Richardson has recently gone down the San Joaquin valley denouncing certain legislators, ostensibly upon what he is pleased to term a platform of economy.

The cost of running the state government, Johnson claimed, was twenty million dollars more during the biennial period just passed than during the preceding period. The burden of taxation has not been lowered at all; merely, in some instances, it has been shifted, Johnson said.

"Under the present California system of taxation our state revenues are derived chiefly from public service corporations. The citizen taxpayer pays all county, city and district taxes, while the corporations pay the state taxes.

"The question finally becomes, therefore, upon this little understood question of taxation, shall it be just and equal," Johnson asked, "or shall the taxes of public service corporations be lessened, and those of our citizens generally increased. Behind all the tumult and out of the obscurity of the cry of economy are seen the tax-evading corporations, and it is their profit the Better America Federation, contemptuous of popular government, frankly reactionary, defenders of special privilege, seek; and it is for this the Better American Federation is spending its money financing candidates for the legislature."

The Value of Charcoal

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty and Yet It Is Not a Drug.

Pure willow charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature.

And the more you take of it the better. It is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the injurious gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking or eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, whitens the teeth, disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh, and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best and most for the money is in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges, composed of the finest quality Willow charcoal powdered to extreme fineness, compressed in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, sweetened to be smooth and palatable.

Many physicians advise Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges to patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat. They are also believed to greatly benefit the liver. These lozenges cost but thirty cents a box at drug stores. For a free trial send your name and address to F. A. Stuart Co., 12 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich. You get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets.—Advertisement.

Author Charged With Plagiarism

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Guy Bolton, author of the play "Polly Preferred," now on a London stage, today was accused of plagiarism by Ossip Dymow, in a suit against Bolton, S. Jay Kaufman and Morris Gest, producers for $100,000 to $500,000 for alleged infringement of copyright.

Dymow charged that Bolton read the manuscript of his play "Personality," while pretending to assist in its translation from the Russian, and got from it ideas for "Polly Preferred."

Navarro and Terry Star in 'The Arab'

Rex Ingram, producer of "Scaramouche" and "The Four Horsemen," has made another masterpiece in "The Arab," a Metro picture, which opens Saturday at the T & D theater. Starring Ramon Novarro and Alice Terry, the picture affords a fine vehicle to display the high caliber of these two stars.

Navarro appears as a handsome young Boudoin, and as the young Arab he scores the greatest success of his career. Miss Terry is seen as the daughter of an American missionary, who enters the east to teach Christianity, but who in turn is taught the olden love method of the sheik. The play was filmed in the wastelands of North Africa.

Disowned by his wealthy father, the young Boudoin starts out on a mischievous and romantic career which goes on unchecked until he meets the American beauty. The father decides to forgive, but the adventurer refuses to be forgiven with the realization that to return home meant the loss of the American girl. He decides to become a Christian.

The sultan orders a massacre of the mission, but troops loyal to the young Boudoin frustrate the plan and all escape unharmed.

A "Chinese Land" act will be the offering of Fanchon & Marco for the coming week. Joe Fong, known the length of the Pacific coast as "The Chinese McCormack," will be featured in the production. "Frisco" Nick, who has been described as "something dark but fast and funny on his feet," has been retained for another week. Elaine Tickner, soprano, and a new chorus troupe direct from the Warwick in San Francisco, are also on the bill.

Milton Sills and Corinne Griffith in "Single Wives," will be seen on the screen for the last times tomorrow.

'Marriage Circle' At Fox-Oakland

Ernest Lubitsch, former director of Pola Negri to stardom created "The Marriage Circle," the feature that is to head the new program at the Fox-Oakland theater for the week beginning next Saturday.

The story of "The Marriage Circle" is one in which conflicting heart interests of two married couples form the basis of a presentation that is marked by dramatic moments, rapid action and [illegible] of comedy.

Included in the cast are Florence Vidor, Marie Prevost, Monte Blue, Adolphe Menjou, Creighton Hale, Harry Myers and many others. Through her work in this picture Miss Marie Prevost definitely established her rights to stardom in the presentation of a difficult role.

In addition to "The Marriage Circle," the new bill will include a new comedy and many other short reel screen features.

This week John Barrymore in "Clean Beginnings" heads an excellent program that is attracting capacity audiences at the Fox-Oakland.

Golden, Fox Form Film Corporation

Seven stage successes are reported to be included in Golden's contribution to the new organization, in which Fox will be the architect of all screen productions. "Lightnin'" and "Seventh Heaven" it is said will be filmed with the casts that appeared in the New York presentations.

CURTAIN CALLS By Wood Soanes

"DID I ever tell you about the time George Webster was playing the hard-boiled Squire Bartlett in 'Way Down East'

Those who know the celebrities in show business would have recognized instanter that the speaker was none other than jovial Ben Giroux, premier raconteur, inventor of the volcano scene in "The Bird of Paradise" and advance man par excellence.

"Well, it was Christmas eve and George was full of Christmas cheer. And so when that melodramatic scene came when Anna was turned out by the Squire and his son made that determined stand to-wit: 'You're surely not going to turn Anna out into the storm, father?' George, who felt kindly toward the world, answered: 'Not on your life. You're a good little kid Anna and you're going to spend Christmas with us.' The curtain fell while the stage director had his say with George as the subject matter.

TWENTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

"Hearts of Tennessee" is at Ye Liberty with Jennie Kelton, a newcomer, featured.

"I came in to tell you that I read that item some time back on the subject of old programs and to fetch you a bunch (business of exhuming a pack of old programs of Ye Liberty from a series of pockets). I can't spend much time. I've got to meet a fellow at 2 o'clock.

"By the way, remember old J. W. Stetson. Well, he was playing 'Jalma,' a big spectacle, at McVicker's in Chicago, and his house manager was Louis L. Sharp. The matinee business had been none too good and so Sharp had a sign made for the front of the house reading:

MATINEE TODAY
2:00 P. M.
SHARP.

"The sign was hardly up when Stetson arrived. He read it and began to boil over. 'What in so and so do you mean by that?' he roared at his manager. 'Understand I'm the whole works here.' And the sign was changed forthwith to read:

MATINEE TODAY
2 P. M.
STETSON.

Giroux, so we have since heard, is going ahead of one of the "Ten Commandments" companies. It seems strange to speak of motion picture companies playing somewhere, but in these days they carry a considerable troupe in addition to the can of film. There are stage hands, prologue scenery, musicians and everything.

At all events Theodore Mitchell has sent some interesting information on the De Mille spectacle from the New York office. The run there will terminate at the Cohan theater on August 24 and on the next day presentations will start at the Criterion theater. The move, so Mitchell says, is necessitated by the expiration of the contract.

FORTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

Up to and including July 26 the picture was seen for thirty-one weeks and two days and the total gross receipts reveal an average weekly business of $14,000. This outdistances the record established by "The Covered Wagon" for the same period.

Further praise is taken unto the new film by the producers in the fact that this record was made during the summer months, which are, ordinarily, pretty dull. What the coast plans for "The Ten Commandments" are has not yet been formally announced.

EXITS AND ENTRANCES

Having finished with "Mary Magdalene," Nance O'Neill is now hard at it on "Hamlet," which is to be presented at the Greek theater on Saturday night, August 23. Miss O'Neill will follow in the footsteps of Sarah Bernhardt, Sarah Siddons, Anna Dickens and others of equal fame when she attempts the melancholy Dane.

If she is to play Hamlet the wonder in this department is whether that noble actor, W. Lawson Butt, is expected to play Ophelia.

The sinister influence of the Hope diamond is still pursuing May Yohe. Recently she has been conducting a tea shop in New Hampshire. It bore the name of "The Blue Diamond." Then the prohibition officers arrived and took off with them a quantity of alcohol, whisky and a nice copper still, together with Captain John Smith, who is Miss Yohe's husband. The family has been reunited through the payment of a fine, but the Blue refreshment is gone and when Miss Yohe's customers ask for tea that is what they get.

Dan Totheroh promises us a new Salome when his play "The Princess Salome" is presented in Juster's "Golden Bough" theater in Carmel next Friday.

Gertrude Hoffman has the distinction of being the first American headliner to play Germany since the war. She goes into the Winter Garden in Berlin with her sixteen ballet girls directly after her English run.

Speaking of distinctions, Morris Goldstein, 26, of New York, is no slouch. He had an altercation with Joseph Bretberg, a professional strong man, well known in vaudeville, and followed the verbal battle with a physical one. True, he used a monkey wrench, but even so.

Robert Warwick is getting $1750 instead of $1250 for his vaudeville act, according to most recent despatches from the eastern battlefront.

"Thank U," recently presented at the Fulton, aroused the ire of at least one Oakland clergyman, who contended that the character of the minister in the play was not true to life. Now comes word from Lake Placid, in New York state, that the play is to be presented with Dr. Henry E. Cobb, a New York divine, in the role played here by Frank Darien.

Lew Cody and Nora Bayes were painfully hurt in London recently when the machine in which they were riding overturned.

Elsie Janis will start on her Orpheum tour in San Francisco on September 21, according to present plans.

CAPITOLA RUN TO BE ABANDONED BY UNION TRACTION

Santa Cruz Company Plans To Discontinue Service On Three Extensions.

SANTA CRUZ, Aug. 14.—S. W. Coleman, president of the Union Traction Company of this city, has issued a statement on the action of the street railway organization, in the light of a decision just rendered by the State Railroad Commission permitting the removal of all or any of the tracks of the transportation company from the streets of the city and including the suburban line in operation between this city and Capitola.

According to Coleman, the plans of the company do not embrace the abandonment of all lines in this territory, but does contemplate the tearing up of the Water street, Soquel avenue and Capitola extensions of the system. Coleman stated that the automobile is responsible for the troubles of the Union Traction Company, registrations of such vehicles having increased from 982 in 1914 to $100 in 1924.

The officials of the company were compelled to adopt some plan to stop the steady losses of the company. Auto busses will replace the street cars east of the San Lorenzo river and on the Capitola run.

'Woman on Jury' Tops State Bill

"The Woman On the Jury" began a four-day engagement at the State theater yesterday.

In addition to the virile story, "The Woman On the Jury" is noteworthy for the cast. In the list are Henry B. Walthall, Bessie Love, Lew Cody, Sylvia Breamer, Hobart Bosworth, Mary Carr, Frank Mayo, Myrtle Stedman, Ford Sterling and Roy Stewart.

The vaudeville program is headed by The Blue Bird Revue, presenting "From Opera To Jazz." Others on the bill are Monnell and Lyrell in "Blessed With Nonsense"; Jerome Merrick & Co. in "Behave Yourself"; Madge Maitland with "Bits of Comedy," and Leonard and Germaine in their "Dance Oddity."

Sunday will bring to the State another triple program with "Ride For Your Life" with "Hoot" Gibson, Laura LaPlante and Robert McKim and the world champion, Jack Dempsey, in "A Society Knockout," the second of the Fight and Win stories by Gerald Beaumont as the screen features.

Los Gatos Property Appraisal Protested

LOS GATOS, Aug. 14.—Charging [illegible] value of various pieces of property in this city, and demanding a readjustment of assessment, Ray Hicks, proprietor of the Foothill hotel, and John B. Shea, San Jose insurance man, appeared last Monday night before the board of town trustees, sitting as a board of equalization.

Hicks made the assertion that several pieces of property owned by members of the board of trustees, officers of a local bank and leading business men of the town, some of whom had formerly been members of the board of trustees, had been appraised at low prices. He also asserted, that, by comparison with the assessments on property owned by a former mayor of the city, and officials of the bank assessments on his own Foothill property and vacant property in University avenue owned by Santa Clara university are high.

American Keeps 'Covered Wagon'

James Cruze's picture, "The Covered Wagon," will be held at the American theater for a second week of its first popular-price engagement in Oakland. The interest which greeted it is indicated by the capacity audiences at the American which occasioned the extended engagement.

Its scenes including the start of the wagon train from Westport Landing. Another stirring episode is the attack of hundreds of Indians in their war regalia upon a portion of the train encamped in an arroyo. Throughout the story is a love theme. Ernest Torrence as Jackson supplies an excellent characterization and splendid work is also done by Lois Wilson, Alan Hale, J. Warren Kerrigan and Tully Marshall.

Special thematic music from the original score is presented by Ernest Swanson and his orchestra.

TURLOCK, Aug. 14.—The Rexish Post of the American Legion and the newly formed ladies' auxiliary held a joint meeting in the Legion hall last night. After the business meeting, during which a report was heard from the delegates to the State convention at Santa Cruz, a social time was enjoyed and refreshments served.

Leo Hammett, representing the Modesto order of the Knights of Columbus, presented the local post with a check for $60 which his organization had won for having the largest attendance of any fraternal organization in the Turlock 4th of July parade, which was given under the auspices of the Turlock Legion Post. A motion was passed thanking the Knights of Columbus for the liberality in returning the prelimin.

Have You Seen "The Covered Wagon?"...

If you have not, you will probably appreciate knowing that the picture will be held over for a SECOND BIG WEEK STARTING SATURDAY. This action is taken by the American management to accommodate the tremendous crowds who were unable to gain admission to the theatre during the past week. "THE COVERED WAGON" is the one big picture that every red-blooded citizen should see and, judging by the way Oaklanders have thronged the American this week, EVERYONE IS TRYING TO SEE IT—SO COME EARLY!

STATE IS DIVIDED OVER DEFENSE DAY CELEBRATION

Oakland to Participate, But Berkeley Bars Parade; Lack of Funds.

Oakland is officially working for the celebration of National Defense Day, Friday, September 12. Berkeley is officially passive, taking no formal part, due, as Mayor Frank D. Stringham explains, "to the expense involved." Local organizations in both cities are divided, some favoring the plan and some opposing it.

Mayor John L. Davie announced today the appointment of a committee at the request of Adjutant General R. E. Mittelstaedt of the California National Guard to take charge of the celebrations here. The committee consists of the following men:

Lieutenant Colonel C. P. Mader, Lieutenant Colonel C. G. Lawrence, Major W. R. Allen, Major H. F. Huber, Captain M. M. Friedman, Captain R. M. Ford, Lieutenant D. B. Rice, Congressman J. H. MacLafferty, Commissioner Wm. J. Moorehead, Commissioner Wm. J. Baccus, Commissioner Albert E. Carter, Commissioner Frank Colbourn, J. R. Knowland, Chas. S. Young, Albert E. Clark, John F. Mullins, Redmond C. Staats, Wm. J. Hamilton, Chas. Heyer, O. H. Fischer, I. H. Spiro, H. J. Anderson, Fred Boegle, Jr., W. P. Williams, Norman De Vaux, J. C. McPherson, T. J. Leary, John A. Christy, J. P. Potter, Allen G. Warssauer, Rex Midgley, E. A. Smith, S. J. Stebbins, Clem Pope, J. D. Palu, E. Feret.

Mayor Stringham has written to General Mittlestaedt explaining the inability of the city of Berkeley to participate in the plans for the day owing to lack of funds.

It was stated yesterday by Rear-Admiral J. F. McKean, that the navy will take no official part in the celebration in the absence of orders to that effect from Washington. The fleet will serve only as a background to the maneuvers ashore, and 22 destroyers, 10 battleships, 2 tenders, 18 land and water planes and other naval craft will be in the harbor for that purpose on Defense Day.

Rev. N. A. Christensen, pastor of the Northbrae Methodist church of Berkeley termed the plans for Defense Day as a "rank bit of over-authority."

On the other hand, Rev. Christian R. Garver, pastor of the Eighth avenue Methodist Church of Berkeley expressed what he calls a minority opinion of the Berkeley clergy by supporting the plans.

Throughout the state the same division of opinion is expressed. Yesterday, the Catholic clergy of Fresno and a group of Catholic and Protestant leaders from San Francisco announced their support of the plan. The Methodist church of San Francisco has announced its opposition [illegible] in Fresno seems to favor the celebration.

The first meeting of the citizens' committee appointed by Mayor Davie to make arrangements for Oakland's participation in National Defense Day will be held on Tuesday, August 19. The committee will act in cooperation with the Federal Government. Colonel E. V. Smith, U. S. A., has been assigned military officer in command of Oakland.

Peace Body Head O. K.s Defense Day

The idea of National Defense Day was approved by Dr. Loval S. Wirt, a speaker for the National Council for the Prevention of Wars, in a talk at the regular weekly meeting of the Oakland Knights of the Round Table at the Hotel Oakland. Dr. Wirt, who was formerly a pastor in this city, said in part:

"I and the council I represent believe that the pre-eminent aim of the world today should be to devote every energy toward the removal of war's menace to the white race.

"But we protest against the charge of being pacifists in the sense that the pacifist believes in a foolish and senseless program of disarming America, while other nations remain armed.

"We believe that the proposed Defense Day is a good thing. We call attention to the day being designated as a day of stock-taking of the Nation's resources. If Americans take it in this sense, all will [illegible] good. But the council discountenances the organization of Defense Day as a military [illegible].

"The first step in the war against war is to organize the public conscience to the point where it will support measures to prevent war. The common people of the nation must be behind such measures before they can be effective."

"FASHION" STORE MANAGER CHOSEN

A. Harry Cohn, former Oakland man who, for the past several years, has been in the east, is now the manager of "The Fashion," women's clothing store at 1212 Washington street, it was announced today by Bruce Herman, owner of the establishment.

Several years ago Cohn was in Oakland as manager of Reich & Lievre's local store. Later he went east, where he made a survey of eastern markets and of the newest tendencies in women's clothing styles.

Alameda to Hold Defense Day Fete

ALAMEDA, Aug. 14.—In order that Alameda may be prepared to pay proper tribute to Americans who were killed in the World War and to the principles of democracy and world peace for which the day stands, W. R. Calcutt, president of the Alameda Chamber of Commerce, today named a special committee to arrange for the observance of Armistice Day this year. It is expected that the celebration will be the most pretentious public observance of the year here.

entage by this method was not obtainable.

"In blood transfusion, physicians found that in a few cases the blood coagulated and the patient died," said the professor. "They were unable to understand this, so they began making a study of these fatalities. The result was that they finally divided human blood into four groups, which cannot mix.

BLOOD TEST CHECK DECLARED FAULTY.

"Supposing a blood test proves that the father of the disputed child falls in group 3, that the mother falls in group 4 and the child in group 2. This would indicate that the child was not theirs. But suppose all three fell under group 2, that would by no means prove parentage, because there are millions of children with blood in that group who are not their children. It might be a coincidence."

Professor Schneider discussed the trial by ordeal of the early days in which a criminal was tied and thrown into water. If he floated he was guilty because pure water rejects impurities. If he sank, he was innocent. The trial by fire, in which the suspect was forced to walk on red hot irons, [illegible].

"Torture of criminals to obtain confessions from them began in the third century and persisted in some European countries as late as 1800," said Schneider. "Now we have the 'sweating' system by which a man is placed in a chair and is questioned for hours by relays of men until hi wsill is broken and he confesses."

Lieutenant Charles L. Hemphill, head of the Oakland traffic squad, in a short address asked the convention to go on record favoring the passage of laws for the physical and mental examination of all persons, before a drivers license should be issued to them. He said that when a certain state official failed to halt at a signal from a traffic officer's whistle, he was arrested and was found to be deaf. Another driver was deaf and dumb, while still another was so near sighted he could not see across a room.

Hemphill declared that it soon would be necessary to create a new parking limit area in order to force parked cars further out of town and make people ride to work on the street cars.

At the close of Hemphill's address Harry Caldwell, president of the I. A. I., appointed B. F. Becker of Piedmont, Inspector C. D. Lee of Berkeley and Chief Murphy as a committee to draw up resolutions on the traffic situation.

Local Birth Control Chapter Is Planned

A special meeting of women has been called for Thursday, August 21, at Hotel Oakland for the purpose of organizing a local chapter to the National Birth Control League. Mrs. R. E. Danford will preside as chairman of the day. Mrs. H. G. Hill acting as secretary.

Mrs. Anne Kennedy, executive secretary of the national organization, will be the principal speaker. She has been in the bay cities the past several weeks, speaking before local clubs and interesting women in the movement.

Sleep Walker Badly Injured By Fall

Mrs. Alice Graham, 594 Twenty-third street, plunged six feet through an open window and was badly injured last night. She was taken to Providence Hospital, where she was treated for a fractured skull and broken arm.

Mrs. Graham, who is 53 years old, was walking in her sleep when the accident occurred, according to the police.

POSTAL INVENTOR HONORED BY NEW

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Thomas Brown, a clerk in the Richmond, Va., post office in 1810, has been given official credit for having invented the "post office box."

While there are no post office department records to show that Brown was the first to make and put the post office box in use, there is nothing on file to disprove the claim made for him by his great granddaughter, Miss Mary D. Lewis, of Tallahassee, Fla.

Postmaster General New, therefore, has replied to a letter from Miss Lewis presenting the claim by stating he is ready to give Brown the benefit of the doubt and acknowledge him as the inventor.

Brown's memoirs, published some time after his death, fully set forth the circumstances leading to the invention.

Brown was asked to devise a plan to remedy the situation. He did so by fitting a partition across a large room, filling it with pigeon holes covered at one end with glass with each hole numbered in front and bearing the name of the box holder at the open end. About 400 boxes were quickly engaged at 50 cents for each three months. Brown's plan is still utilized in postoffices throughout the smaller cities and towns of the country.

Japan Envoys Here To Study U.S. Schools

[illegible], Aug. 14.—Three Japanese have arrived here on the steamship Iyo Maru from the Far East to study American public institutions and schools. They include E. DEATH CLAIMS MRS. S. E. DUNGAN

Mrs. Sarah E. Dungan, one of the pioneers of Humboldt county, died this morning at her home, 650 Sixty-second street, this city. Death was due to old age.

Mrs. Dungan and her husband, John C. Dungan, who died in Berkeley in 1903, settled in Humboldt in 1857. Over trails made by Indians and wild animals they made their way into Eel River valley where they literally cut out of the dense forest the home which has since remained in the family. There were but two other white women in that vicinity at the time. As one of the first settlers, Mrs. Dungan took an active part in the life and upbuilding of the community until she moved to Berkeley about thirty years ago. She later made her home in Oakland.

Mrs. Dungan was born in Kentucky in 1839. She was married in Missouri at an early age and came to California by way of Panama. From San Francisco she and her husband were twenty-one days on a sailing vessel before they made Humboldt bay.

Stockton Policeman Dies in Santa Cruz

SANTA CRUZ, Aug. 14.—Hugh Weaver, for many years a member of the Stockton police force, registered with his wife at a Laurel street rooming house here, died suddenly while sitting in a chair awaiting his breakfast. He arose at an early hour after a comfortable night's rest and dressed. A few moments later his wife found him sitting in his chair dead. The body was shipped to Stockton after an inquest had been held and a verdict of death from heart disease had been rendered.

IDENTIFICATION EXPERTS HERE.

A body of men trained to close scrutiny are looking over Oakland and the Eastbay this week. The California Division of the International Association of Identification and Investigation carries with it a long name and a goodly number of sharp-eyed delegates. They are men who know how to discover fingerprints which the run of men cannot see, how to read from the marks the name and the record of the men who left them, and how to photograph and classify the lines and whorls for future reference.

The art of criminal identification has developed remarkably within the past twenty years and Berkeley and Oakland have prominent places in the story of its growth. A man trained in the Berkeley bureau is head of the State Department of Criminal Identification and the one in charge of the work at Oakland is regarded as an authority by the police departments of the country. The work of these men and their fellows has returned to the State in recovered property the equivalent to millions of dollars.

Important as the fingerprint work is, it is no more than a part of that performed by the experts who are meeting here to keep in touch with the latest researches in investigation and identification. It may be said for these men who are being welcomed to Oakland, if their services could be rewarded in proportion to the value of the property which they recover and protect they would be among the highest paid men in the country.

ANOTHER RUSSIAN FAMINE?

The news that comes from Russia that another famine is to be expected this winter is the more tragic because of the fact that the Moscow government has been exporting the needed grain. Evidently it is no longer possible to hide the facts for official and semi-official Russian newspapers admit that shortened food conditions will affect 7,000,000 persons.

It was not many months ago that Leonid Krassin, Soviet food commissioner, promised Europe 2,500,000 tons of grain this year. There was a chance then that he could keep the promise and still have enough left to feed the home country. Lack of rain in some districts and too much in others have been responsible for a shortage. Shipments to Europe are being curtailed, but it is too late to save enough for the home needs.

What the Soviet did was gamble on its crop for the sake of developing a greatly needed foreign trade. There was a pressing call to bolster Russian currency and the food commissioner saw the chance to sell in Europe the grain of the peasants. Now it is reported the granaries are empty and farmers are disposing of their cattle to get food.

Recent cable despatches in the TRIBUNE tell of an increase of unemployment in the cities because of the lowered buying power. Factories are closing and conditions are becoming grave. With a winter coming the Russian Government has shipped out the food that should have been saved for her own people.

SHIPS FROM NICARAGUA.

The tide of fortune, which ran heavily against Nicaragua and caused it to be known as a place of revolutions, volcanoes and mosquitos, has turned and in the new prosperity which is coming, California and the port of Oakland, has played a part.

On the Atlantic, or Caribbean side, Nicaragua has always presented its backyard, an unprepossessing stretch carrying the forbidding name, "Mosquito Coast." Taking the name for what it appears to mean it has been accepted that the savage mosquito is there in abundance and none but the few who have looked it up are aware that the appellation is a corruption of the name of an Indian tribe, the "Misskits."

The larger cities are on the Pacific and the business, until recent years, was on the Eastern coast. When San Francisco Bay developed great industry and the other Pacific Coast ports expanded Nicaragua discovered that a position long believed to be a handicap was advantageous. Another discovery of equal importance was that repeated revolutions were a bar to progress.

Today the little country, no larger than the State of New York and with but a few more inhabitants than there are in Oakland, conducts its elections without disorder. Scientists there even predict the volcanoes and demonstrate that the eruptions of the past have been a blessing because they fertilized the land to a marvelous degree.

The revolution in Sao Paulo has increased the value of Nicaragua's coffee crop and money is flowing in. Ships that unload coffee and bananas on the Oakland wharves are evidence of a new order. They come from a little country that is taking a larger place in the affairs of this continent.

GOOD FALL BUSINESS.

With exports, production, and inquiries in respect to orders increased over June and over last year, conditions in July and the first half of August reflect a considerable betterment in sentiment, according to the mid-year bulletin of the National Industrial Conference Board.

"Trade sources indicate that June marked the low point in business so far this year," the report concludes, "and that the turning point has been reached. The belief that business this Fall will be good is quite general. Exports for the first six months were 7.4 per cent greater in value than for the first six months of 1923."

The board points out that although production and distribution during the first six months of this year have been below that of a similar period last year, it should not be forgotten that the first six months of last year witnessed the height of the trade boom. The index of production in basic commodities as compiled by the Federal Reserve Board for the first half of 1924 shows an increase over the average index figures for 1920, 1921, and 1922. From 1920 to 1923 inclusive the average was 94, while for the first six months of 1924 it was 111.

It is the purpose of the Board to give accurate forecasts for the benefit of industry and its conclusions are never influenced by a desire to be optimistic. The mid-year report of a steadying of conditions the country over and of every prospect for good business this Fall carries weight and assurance.

A PRISON REPORT.

Since the passage of the parole law in 1893, prisoners on parole from San Quentin and Folsom have earned close to eight and a half millions of dollars. Better yet, they have saved $2,443,886.

Of course, the strongest arguments for or against the parole are not those of economies, but it may be said that figures of this kind are proof of the fact that most of the men and women who are given another chance have applied themselves to industry. At the end of June there were 1754 on parole from the two California penitentiaries, or almost 30 per cent of the prison population. Since the law was passed more than ten thousand have been given parole.

The natural question relates to the manner in which the paroled men lived up to their obligations. It is shown that, since 1893, 16 per cent have violated their parole, although the great majority of this number did not commit any crime. The violations were, largely, failure to report, moving out of prescribed district, etc. Four per cent committed new crimes.

Many conclusions may be drawn from the regular monthly reports of the State Board of Prison Directors, but among them these stand out: most of those paroled make good; an almost negligible number commit new crimes; the parole system is saving the State hundreds of thousands of dollars; and, it is enabling those under parole to support themselves and families.

Some real interesting statistics from the water company would be the facts concerning those persons who boast of taking a cold plunge each morning.

SURVEY OF DELTA WATER SITUATION

The survey to aid in determining the duty of water in the growing of potatoes in the delta is a work that promises to mean much to growers of the famous peat lands. Heretofore there was an abundance of water and it was used with an extravagant hand and with no thought of what the actual needs of the soil were for the best yield and quality of the product.

With the data compiled as a result of the survey, growers will know accurately how much water should be used for best results in yield and quality. An intelligent application of the findings of the research work will add to the profit of all availing themselves of this information.

Growers on the upland have had similar data at their command for many years through the efforts of the Federal Department of Agriculture, functioning in connection with the University of California, and as a result of such research work the amount of water needed for practical irrigation purposes to get the best results in yield and quality has made possible much of the development that has taken place in the various irrigated areas.

This work is a part of the program outlined by the permanent committee of the river problems conference appointed at Colusa last July at a gathering of Delta land owners and farmers. Other activities of this committee at this time include the curtailing of the use of water for irrigation to aid in the cleaning of the encroachment of salt water from the bay. In this respect fine work has been done to date.

The work of the committee is financed by private subscriptions largely and is deserving of liberal support upon the part of Delta land owners and others interested in the highest development of the Stockton-Sacramento Delta, consisting approximately of 400,000 acres.—Stockton Record.

THE CONNING TOWER

After the manner of men who are able to make merry with profit F. P. A. has gone vacationing. Bravely he stuck it out through the summer season realizing that one of the oldest traditions of his profession, has it that in the hot weather, the tired businessman is most in need of amusement. Through July F. P. A. stuck by his guns and his puns, serving up to those who must adhere to their desks or mingle dismally with the summer tourists who haunt the revues and cabarets, the best he could fashion in verse and jest.

Half way through August he fought the fight until one day, discovering a leaf upon an elm was fringed with brown, a 1925 sign upon an automobile, and a new marquee over a theater, he felt convinced that Autumn was approaching. He wanted to see Helen Wills play tennis in the East and bethought himself in his romantic manner that the racquet of that game is not totally unlike a ukelele. The world knows that from a uke to a lute there is no greater distance than may be negotiated in one terrible and blindfold leap.

So the troubador of tennis, the man who imitates Horace and envies Tilden, has quit the singing strings to swing a racquet made of catgut. He has turned his back upon the noble occupation of column conducting to walk softly on rubber soles, to mix with agility in concrete courts, and to return with interest and precision any balls that are banged at him over the net. Because he is a humorist, this is his idea of a vacation.

But what is to be done about the column? Is it to be closed because F. P. A., for a time, prefers to swat tennis balls instead of foibles? Or will the old Almanac gang swing merrily into action?

My Maltese cat, an alley prize,
Spent three whole years a-chasing flies.
She leaped, she pranced, she dove, she spun,
And never did she catch a one.
(But in evidence of the fact that ambition is conducive to happiness.)
That cat would purr as if its soul
Were shifting gears with a ton of coal.

One day a weary fly o'erslept
And on its frame my kitty leapt.
I watched her then and did surprise
Illusion dying in her eyes.
(Showing that a goal attained may prove to be a way station)
"What is the use," she seemed to sigh,
"This ain't no rainbow: it's a fly."

And, True to Promise.

Dear Shoos:

Unlimber the guns of your wit for the sparrow that rifled my trees of their sweetness and light, but twig me not on the fruit thereof. For my apricots were birds, sir; my cherries were peachy. Only this morning I plucked from my vines a bowl of blackberries as ripe and mellow as the judgment of the gods in the case of Bobbed Hair vs. the Ten Sutherland sisters. I pass over my lawn lightly; that is, I will pass o'er the spot where fancy had painted my lawn. But, after all, not lightly. A heavy heart recalls with what fond touch I planted each seed of Australian rye, alternating with one of blue grass. Each seed a prayer. But what is not to be is not to be, as Hamlet must have muttered as he looked out over his acreage of wild oats. My lawn is a wilderness of weeds and my consolation lies only in the fact that I have produced a greater crop than the Eastbay has e'er laid a soft blue eye on. If Nature be as contrary next season I shall plant weeds in the hope of reaping grass. Stranger things have happened to greater fools than thou, Shoos, and

Yours horticulturally,

THE COOLEY AND THE FIRE.

Wong Sing is a Chinese laundryman in Atlantic City. His laundry caught fire. When the firemen arrived they found Wong Sing whirling like a dervish, uttering strange cries and furiously beating a tin pan to scare the fire demon away from his laundry.

A good many "educated," Christian natives will find that amusing. In their wisdom and sophistication they know that the thing to do in the case of fire is to turn in an alarm. They know also that many fires are preventable.

What they do not know, or at any rate do not realize, so far as fire-prevention is concerned, is that most of us adopt the same methods used by the old Chinaman. To talk, talk, talk, talk and talk, without doing anything is just about as effective as beating a tin pan.—New Orleans Item.

THE NATIONAL PRESS

Boston Transcript: "So far as four governors of as many states can 'nullify' the Defence Day program by declining in some measure to participate in it, they are going to do so, it appears. These four states are Nebraska, Wisconsin, Colorado and Maine. The most uncompromising of these governors is Blaine of Wisconsin, who refuses to permit the National Guard in his state to participate in any manner in a needed national exercise."

Baltimore Sun: "Illiterates entitled to vote at the coming presidential election are estimated to number 4,300,000. This may be regarded as shocking, if true; but in fact the voters who cannot read and write will not be able to elect a president except with the assistance of at least 10,000,000 other American citizens. The chances are, moreover, that they will split about as the educated voters do."

Philadelphia Ledger: "The only reason interallied war debts did not form a part of the reparations settlement reached at London was the firm opposition displayed by the United States to linking up these two subjects. The Washington government logically has taken the position that the ability of Germany to pay reparations in no way depends upon the payment by European nations of their war debts to this country. Secretary Hughes has frequently reiterated this principle."

Salt Lake Tribune: "August 11 marks the ninety-first anniversary of the birth of Robert G. Ingersoll, lawyer, orator and writer of eminence, whose service to the world in strengthening intellectual freedom is more and more recognized as the years go by. Whether or not one agrees with Ingersoll in avowal that there is no positive knowledge concerning life beyond the grave, it is beyond all question true that his was a great and kindly soul that ever cherished sympathy and love."

New York Herald Tribune: "The latest prophecy that the human race, if permitted to increase unchecked, will have standing room only on the planet in 19,000 years should be disquieting to all save regular patrons of Mayor Hylan's subways. But fortunately for the peace of mind of those concerned with the future, there is hope that such a catastrophe may be averted."

Seattle Times: "Candidate Davis, late of Locust Valley and Wall Street, has returned to his old home at Clarksburg, West Virginia, to receive any startling announcement Senator Walsh may have to make concerning the recent Democratic convention. The little city of Clarksburg, which somehow has escaped the country's attention until the present occasion, is sufficiently remote from the influence of Tammany or of Wall Street to be safe for a candidate."

Columbus Dispatch: "John W. Davis is said to be only an average golfer, but if he can get the support of all the other average golfers his chances of election appear to be very good."

Brooklyn Standard Union: Mr. Hughes made it plain that the United States is eager to be of whatever assistance possible to Europe. That's true, too. That state of mind runs second only to our eagerness to keep out of European broils that are none of our concern."

JUST FOLKS
By EDGAR A. GUEST

BE LENIENT WITH FOLLY.

Be lenient with folly!
Old age, severe and prim,
Let youthful hearts be jolly;
Thrust not your melancholy
On smiling her or him;
Time was your heart, as theirs are,
Was tuned to mirth and song;
But now it knows what cares are
And trouble's years are long.

Be lenient with laughter!
Old age, by duty bent,
For Time, the burden-grafter,
Shall bind his cares soon after,
And you'll is swiftly spent;
When you were young you mocked them
Who bade you change your ways;
When you were young you shocked them
And danced away your days.

Be lenient when they blunder!
Old age, correctly straight,
Let not your temper thunder
And sweep their pleasures under,
Leave that to Time and Fate;
For once your heart, as theirs are,
Went leaping all about;
But now it knows what cares are
And they shall find that out.

ICELAND.

Concerning American aviators and naval officers who have visited Iceland, an Associated Press correspondent writes from Hoofn Hornafford, expected to find it an ice-bound land inhabited by Eskimos. To their surprise they found it a civilized country where in the lowlands by the sea the temperature rarely goes to zero in the winter.

If they had consulted the cyclopedia they would have discovered that the people are generally intelligent, that more books are sold in proportion to population than in any country in Europe, and that the University of Reykjavik maintains a high standard.

Countries with which we are unfamiliar always seem semi-civilized. A scientific man seeking data for a book wrote to university professors in every country in the world how they would group the nations from the standpoint of culture. The most highly civilized were to be put in group 1, the next in group 2, and so on. The replies from the north of Europe put Iceland in group 1, those from the south of Europe ranked it lower in the scale, while those from South America put it at the bottom. In general group 1 was made up of countries near the home of the men who were doing the grouping.

From the beginnings of recorded history every people has regarded the inhabitants of remote lands as barbarians.—Kansas City Times.

TIMES CHANGE.

If you want to know how times are changing, take the story of the celebrated sheik.

Ibn Ali Hussein is the most illustrious member of the family. It is he who rules the desert around the sacred city of Mecca, and claims descent from no less a personage than the prophet Mohammed himself.

Ibn Ali is monarch of a wide sea of sand; does he roam the desert rifling treasure chests and snatching ladies from their escorts in moving picture style?

Apparently not. Listen to this report of modern Arab manners vouchsafed by the London Times:

Ibn Ali writes his orders with a fountain pen. He operates a wireless. He owns a newspaper called El Kibla, dictates editorials—and corrects the galley proof.

Oh, yes—and his telephone number in Mecca, No. 1.—Colliers.

PERSONAL HEALTH SERVICE

By DR. W. A. BRADY.

THE FRIENDS OF THE SPRATTS.

A little while ago Mrs. Jack Spratt reported here how she had reduced 37 pounds in three months by following a reasonable reduction regimen—she walked six miles a day, rain or shine, and exercised what was, for a fat person, rare self-discipline, in the restriction of every kind of food. She netted certain advantages aside from the mere reduction of weight. For instance, her husband discovered in her something more like the girl he married. Her "rheumatism" disappeared. "Nervousness" passed away and "stomach trouble" and headache no longer bothered her. Mrs. Jack Spratt, in short, proved that even a fat woman has a backbone as you will find if you prod deeply enough. In fact, something irritating I had said about this aroused Mrs. Spratt's ire and she determined to show that a fat woman has a backbone.

While Mrs. Spratt was doing her daily six miles on the hoof the friends and neighbors had a grand time ridiculing her foolishness. But her man Jack apparently did not see it in that light, for he accompanied the missus on her walks whenever he could take the time. Queer, isn't it, how hard it is for the average man to get time to take a health walk with his wife when they both need it so much. Jack was a good sport, however, and maybe he saw somewhere ahead the vision of that girl he had married, so he trotted along every once in a while, paced by another good sport, and curiously enough, while Mrs. Spratt was reducing, Jack himself actually put on some weight—he's a skinny fellow and needs it. But that is perfectly clear to any school boy. Mrs. Spratt was restricting her entire food intake, while mister gave his increased appetite full play. Why not?

The neighbors and friends of the Spratt's had a fine time ridiculing the performance, especially that of Mrs. Spratt. The very idea of a 200-pound 5-foot woman well past 30 and with a lot of children to look after, running off that way every day and walking all over town. Why, it was a crazy thing to do, agreed the neighbors. And some of the friends chided Mrs. Spratt for it. Some of the neighbors thought a woman could get all the exercise she needed just doing her housework. They were wrong. Unless a woman does all her own washing, scrubbing, house cleaning and everything she doesn't get an adequate amount of wholesome exercise. Not enough to keep her quite fit. And when the heavier duties are delegated to assistants or employees, the housewife simply must seek other means of daily exercise if she wishes to keep in anything like the physical condition she had at the time of her marriage. The sedentary life hurries old age.

By the time Mrs. Spratt had sloughed off enough of the sorry slacker flesh to show unmistakably her backbone, the neighbors and friends discarded the old tunes and besieged her with demands to know how in the world she had managed to do it. All along they tried in every way they could to discourage Mrs. Spratt in her determination to show her backbone, particularly the plump friends who probably believed that if a fat woman really had a backbone she could simply have it adjusted and grow thin at will. And then as soon as Mrs. Spratts' backbone began to appear in spots these neighbors and friends who had been so amused at her crazy regimen turned right around and began to envy her what she had won by it. Indeed, several of them are secretly trying to find their own backbones now.

ELECTRICAL FIRM OPENS BRANCH HERE

Emeryville Plant of Pittsburg Supply Company to Specialize in Manufacture of Pole-Line Equipment

A new Eastbay industry planning immediate construction, valued at $250,000, and the employment of more than 150 men at the outset, was announced today. Three acres have been purchased by Hubbard and company, electrical hardware manufacturers, of Pittsburgh, Pa., on the Southern Pacific tracks, on Forty-fifth street between Watts and Hollis streets, in Emeryville, and construction work will start within two weeks, according to the announcement made today.

Hubbard and company is a $40,000,000 concern. In the new plant in Oakland, the company will specialize in pole-line equipment. The annual pay-roll will amount to more than $250,000.

TO BUILD CRANEWAY.

R. L. Kerschner will be the district manager of the Oakland plant. He is already on the ground and will actively supervise the construction and operation of the factory. The other company representative who closed the realty deal was C. L. Peirce, president of the electrical equipment division of the company.

The first construction includes a craneway, 66 by 100 feet in size, an assembly building and warehouse. Later an administration building will be erected. Spur track facilities are being installed by the Southern Pacific.

The property was purchased by Hubbard and company from the Mercantile through the E. B. Field company of Oakland.

LUMBER YARD PURCHASED

The Chicago Lumber company of Washington has purchased seven acres from the Coast Manufacturing & Supply company at the foot of Sixty-eighth avenue on the Western Pacific railroad, for use as a yard. The property represents an investment of approximately $250,000. Between 40 and 50 employees will be maintained at the Oakland yard.

General offices of this concern is located in San Francisco in the Hearst building. In addition to this, it has offices in Kansas City, Seattle, New York, Chicago and Detroit.

The Fraka & Ramos Mill and [illegible] 15,000 square feet adjacent to its present yard at Twenty-ninth avenue between Seventh and Chapman streets and is constructing an addition covering 2500 square feet of the new property.

The transactions of both lumber companies were announced today by the Oakland Chamber of Commerce.

Something Older Than the Hills

In the two photographs above are views of a fossilized tooth of a sea cow that roamed these regions when California was a dank swamp. The specimen, uncovered in a mine of the Carbon Coal Company of Mendocino county, is in the hands of A. L. FISHER (shown in the insert), general manager of the company, who is to present it to the University of California.

Fossil Tooth, Million Years Old, Found in Mendocino

A million years ago, when King Tut was still something to be desired in biological development, a sea cow greedily ripping at a tough bough among the California everglades, lost a tooth. That tooth, just brought to the light of a new day, gives us at last something older than the hills.

The tooth, one of the finest fossils ever discovered on the Pacific coast, was uncovered in a mine of the Carbon Coal company in Mendocino county, by A. N. Massey superintendent, and was turned over today to the state mining bureau by A. L. Fisher, general manager of the company.

DONATED TO U. C.

Walter W. Bradley of the state mining bureau, is arranging to turn the specimen over to the University of California and to make new explorations for other fossils in the vicinity of the mine.

Identified by Dr. Dallas Hannah, consulting geologist os San Francisco, as belonging to the early tertiary period, the fossil transcends most things of the world today in point of age.

Since the sea cow lost the tooth in the California swamp, the Alps and the Himalay amountains were pushed up out of the ocean floor, the crust of the earth wrinkled and the Cordilleran system of mountains extending from Alaska to Cape Horn, came into being, the ice cap slipped down from the poles and the world became a frozen crystal, and thus era followed era down to the beginning of man.

CALIFORNIA DESOLATE.

When the sea cow feasted upon the swampy roots, California was a desolate region similar to the everglades of Florida. It was the entombment of the plant life of this period within the earth that caused the oil deposits that are now California's pride.

The sea cow was a huge aquatic mammal which survived all of the geological changes and existed until 1767, when it was exterminated by seal hunters and sailors, who found its beef-like flesh excellent eating. The mammal was described as 24 to 30 feet long, with a girth of 20 feet and weighing about 8000 pounds.

Removal of Poles Is Left in Doubt

ALAMEDA, Aug. 14.—That the Southern Pacific company will consider the removal of its poles from the center to the sides of the street along Central avenue from Sherman street to Fourth street, but that such a change seems impossible, was announced today by C. E. Hickok, city manager, following a conference with J. C. McPherson, superintendent of the Eastbay electrical service of the company.

McPherson pointed out that the proposed removal of the poles would undoubtedly be met with protest by property owners in front of whose property the poles would be located and pointed out opposition which delayed the removal of a single pole at Central avenue and Sherman street for three weeks to sustain his argument. He also declared that the expenditure of $15,000 would be necessary to remove the poles. Hickok said that the city may not be able to force the Southern Pacific to take this action if the company is unwilling to do so.

Steinmetz Reviews Alameda Fire Work

ALAMEDA, Aug. 14.—Alameda firemen laid 62,800 feet of hose raised 5219 feet of ladder and used 2381 gallons of chemicals in fighting fires which threatened property valued at $1,414,690 and did property damage totaling $149,312.42 during the past fiscal year, according to the annual report of Fire Chief Walter Steinmetz, filed with C. E. Hickok this morning.

Chief Steinmetz's report shows that during the fiscal year 1923-24 297 fires resulted in damages totaling $149,312.42, an increase of $133,694.97 over the fire losses for the previous fiscal year and that the greater proportion of this loss was caused by seven incendiary fires. During the year 522 alarms were turned in, of which 17 were false, 7 were for rescue work and one was a call to Berkeley.

Jury to Try Man In Theft of Two Cans of Sardines

A jury was selected this morning to hear the case of A. B. Grossman, 916 Broadway, who is charged with stealing two cans of sardines, valued at 48 cents, from a branch of the Piggly-Wiggly company.

The case was continued from this morning by Police Judge E. J. Tyrrell, while a jury was selected. Grossman was arrested on the complaint of E. G. Anderson, district manager of the Piggly-Wiggly company, who charges that Grossman committed the theft on May 16 last. Grossman is being represented by Myron Harris and Leo Sullivan.

5 U. C. Co-Eds to Be Admitted By Court

Five young women graduates of the University of California law college will be admitted to practice by the Superior Court Monday. This is the largest class of women lawyers ever admitted in California.

FILM CRITIC AGAIN CHIDES BAY CENSORS

BERKELEY, Aug. 14.—Robert E. Sherwood, dramatic editor of a weekly who recently threw a bombshell into the college city by declaring members of the Berkeley Better Films Committee to be "busybodies," today defies the same women again despite an avalanche of protesting letters descending upon him.

Sherwood declares in his dramatic column that his denunciation of the Berkeley films body "earned me more letters of protest than Rupert Hughes himself could write in ten years."

"Nevertheless," he concludes, "in spite of the chastening to which I have been subjected, I still think I was right."

Sherwood publishes part of an answer to his criticism from Mary Mills West of Berkeley, a former member of the films body, who refuted the dramatic critic's statement that members of the committee accepted passes to the shows they criticized. She declared that the women bought their own tickets. Mrs. West refuted the charge also, that the women were seeking publicity and declared as American citizens they had the right to the free expression of opinion. Sherwood also mentions a letter received from Wilton A. Barrett of the National Board of Review, in which he said he was supplied with a "clear outline" of the aims of the film body.

Rubiyat Eclipses Kipling, Robert Service in Favor

Omar Khayyam has had a neck-and-neck race with Robert Service and Rudyard Kipling during the past year for the position of most popular poet with Oakland readers. This fact became known today with the issuance of the annual report of the Oakland Free Library. The document includes reports on the Oakland Art Gallery, the Oakland Public Museum and the Snow African collection.

"The 'Life of Christ,' by Giovanni Papini, has been the most popular book of the year in Oakland, with 'The Dance of Life,' by Havelock Ellis, a close second," says the report. "'The Life and Letters of Walter Page' should be mentioned next, as it bravely held a fourth place in the reserve list through most of the year, with varying titles in the third rank.

RADIO FANS READ.

"Among technical books, works on radio led all the rest. In the art section the principal demands were for practical books on domestic architecture and interior decoration, and for commercial art, design, lettering, illustration, etc. In the field of business, books on investment and finance, real estate and insurance were in greatest request.

"A most difficult and distressing problem has been the increasing number of losses by theft and mutilation of books and magazines. We have found that it is possible to keep certain books only under lock and key, and a closed-shelf collection has gradually grown from a small beginning in one locked case to fairly large proportions. To insure record their names and addresses on 'call-slips' at the desk."

A statement of income and expenditures for the Oakland Free Library for the year ending June 30, this year, shows a total income of $169,657.08, which amount includes $417.62 in journal entries for prior years. The total amount received from fines was $5,813.49. The total of expenditures for the year including prior year bills was $168,786.31. This left a balance on hand of $870.77.

N.D.G.W. FINANCIALLY ACTIVE

SAN LEANDRO, Aug. 14.—The report of committees at the meeting of the local Native Daughters' parlor is in good shape financially and that many new activities are being planned for the coming term, Sunday.

SUPERVISORS SAY PAVING UP TO CITY

Whether East Fourteenth street from Fifieth avenue to the San Leandro line is repaved or the Redwood Peak extension of Skyline boulevard is paved now depends upon the action of the Oakland city council.

This was the declaration today of Supervisors Redmond C. Staats and John F. Mullins. Now that the Appellate court has ruled that the county may turn over money to the city to make these improvements, the supervisors declare the board is ready to do so just as soon as the city council takes actual steps to have the work done by creating assessment districts and awarding contracts for the work.

"The board of supervisors has $00,000 which it has reserved toward the improvement of East Fourteenth street, and $25,000 toward paving the extension of Skyline boulevard," says Supervisor

Some people think they work so hard for their money. Then how pleased they should be to know that their money will work hard for them if they give it a chance.

For instance, if you placed $10 here each month, in 12 years, you would have saved $1440. But we would give that back with $661.70 more, or a total of $2101.70.

In other words your $10 per month was making Six Per Cent per annum for you and compounding semi-annually.

Flit spray penetrates cracks and crevices where bedbugs and roaches breed, destroying the insects, their eggs and larvae.

Destroys All Insects

Flit clears the house in a few minutes of mosquitoes and disease-bearing flies. It is clean, easy to use and harmless.

Spraying Flit on garments kills moths. It destroys their eggs and the tiny worms called larvae which eat holes.

Exhaustive tests showed that Flit did not stain or injure the most delicate fabrics.

Flit is sold to fur storage plants, etc., in bulk quantities.

Windows, bath tubs and tile will glisten if sprayed with Flit and polished with a dry cloth.

BILLY WALLACE MAKES GOOD BY DEFEATING BUD RIDLEY

Two Oakland Women Are Given Places in Championship Flight of the San Francisco City Golf Tournament

YOUNGSTER MAKES BUD APPEAR SLOW WITH HIS FOOTWORK AND BOXING

Dynamite George Comes Back Strong to Beat Jimmy Darrah; Nick Neuman Makes Fine Impression When He Takes Fred Sullivan Into Camp.

By BOB SHAND.

Once a boxer hits the down grade the fans soon forget about him and he passes to the scrap-heap unnoticed. No matter how good he once was there is always some one to take his place. By the same token an unknown preliminary boy can gain fame in a night. Take the case of Billy Wallace, for instance. This youngster has been boxing preliminaries for several years and receiving small medals for his services. He was always quite a boxer, but recently he became more aggressive and learned how to hit. He was given his big chance at the Auditorium last night when he was matched against Bud Ridley, one of the best featherweights in the game, and Wallace won. This victory will give the kid prestige all over the country and he will continue as a main eventer until some other little four-rounder hangs one on his chin.

Ridley is the featherweight champion of the northwest having won a diamond-studded belt in a recent tournament. He licked 'em all over the ten-round route, but dropped a couple to Tod Morgan in six rounds. Now they have wired Bud to hurry back and meet Babe Herman in defense of his title. Wallace may get a crack at the winner even though last night's bout was only a four-round affair and the Portland Boxing Commission recognizes ten-round bouts only. Perhaps over a longer route Ridley might reverse the decision of last evening but he was a thoroughly licked gentleman last night. And Bud is a real little gentleman at that. He was the first to congratulate Wallace on his victory and he put up a nice clean fight throughout. Joe Waterman, Bud's manager, was right behind his fighter in extending congratulations.

Wallace Weakened By Making Weight.

Wallace boxed last night under the handicap of having worked off eight pounds in the last week. Ridley insisted on Billy making 125, so the local boy had to do a lot of road work. His legs weakened in the third round when he slowed up but he had enough left to rally in the fourth. Wallace took the first, second and fourth rounds with the third even.

Ridley excelled in infighting but at long range Wallace was his master, ducking under Ridley's long swings and side-stepping when Bud tried to cover him. Ridley was the aggressor and was dangerous at all times but Wallace's ring craft was superb and Bud failed to land a damaging blow.

Dynamite George Is in Good Form Again.

Dynamite George made a sensational comeback when he won all the way from Jimmy Darrah. Years and years ago George fought Sailer Petroskey, Sailor Grande, Otto Berg and that kind and held his own. He finds the present crop much softer but he won't get anything softer than Darrah was last night. The latter holds too much to suit the customers and his style of boxing is not popular.

Nick Neuman and Fred Sullivan put up a fast fight for heavyweights with the decision going to Neuman, where it belonged. Just what held Sullivan up when Nick threw leather into his kitchen is something that Sullivan alone knows. Neuman, a big strapping fellow with a chest like a professional strong man, put his body behind every punch and he sunk his gloves up to the wrist in the Sullivan gallery time and again. Fred was defeated but not disgraced.

Eddie Roberts Stops Smith in the Fourth.

Eddie Roberts had a swell chance to knock Sailor Smith for the loop in the first round but he started to think like Teddy O'Hara and the golden opportunity slipped by. After knocking the colored boy to the floor for a count of eight he had a punch-drunk, leg-weary opponent in front of him but Eddie refused to take a chance. The colored boy went through the second and third rounds in good shape, but Roberts got the range again in the fourth. A right and left to the head following a body attack left Smith ready for the finisher but Referee George Brown wisely stopped the bout with a minute to go.

Crisp Lucky to Get a Draw With Ben Dotson.

Al Crisp got a draw with Benny Dotson but had it been left to a vote of the customers Benny would have received a majority. Jack Brereton voted for Dotson, but Charlie Joseph thought Crisp won, while Referee Brown decided [illegible] on a draw. Pickles Martin and Vic [illegible] also broke even while [illegible] took the opener from [illegible].

Helen Wills Is Too Good for Girl Players

"She Will Soon Have to Be Matched Against Men," Says Official.

By HENRY L. FARRELL.
United Press Staff Correspondent

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 14.—"She's getting so good she'll have to be entered in the men's division before long," a prominent tennis official said of Miss Helen Wills, the National and Olympic champion, at the West Side Tennis club today.

The young Californian has the field surviving in the annual women's National championship tournament so outclassed that she is a 10 to 1 shot to retain her title. If she gets by this year there will be no way to stop her for years.

As the tournament is now progressing toward the end, it looks as if Mrs. Molla Mallory, who lost the championship last year, will be the finalist. The former champion hardly can be expected to do better than she did against the California girl at Forest Hills and Paris, because the modest Helen knows her game like a book from start to finish.

Miss Mary K. Browne, the champion of 1912, 1913 and 1914, who has been doing so well at her comeback, probably will meet the champion in the semi-final round and she is the only one who has a game that may force her sister Californian. Miss Browne will mix them up, but she will be very busy taking care of her own side of the net.

There are eight survivors ready for the round before the semi-final which is to start this afternoon.

In the upper half Mrs. Mallory opposes Mrs. F. V. Roeser, the former Miss Edna Hauselt, Metropolitan indoor champion, and Miss Eleanor Goss play the young Jersey girl, Miss Martha Bayard.

Mrs. Mallory and Miss Goss, on the dope, should survive the semi-finals.

In the lower half, Miss Wills meets Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup and Miss Browne plays against Miss Mayme McDonald, the clay court champion.

Lloyd Bierly of Portland finished fourth with 157 and Bscal Kay of Salem was fifth with 158. Richard Lang of Stanford University and C. E. Foote of Portland tied for sixth place with 159 each.

Famous Ninth Tee at Lake Chabot Course on a Sunday

One of the favorite gathering spots of the Lake Chabot golf course is the celebrated short 150-yard, ninth tee on a Sunday morning. It is a common occurrence to see from two to six foursomes waiting their turn to play onto the ninth green from the brow of the hill. Here are some "regulars" of the Lake Chabot Club waiting their turn.

Shirley Snow Leaves Local Y.M.C.A. Post

Amory P. "Slats" Gill, Former Oregon Aggie Star, Assistant to Williams.

Shirley Snow, former Oakland high school boy, and for the past several years a member of the physical department staff at the Oakland Y. M. C. A., is leaving the local field.

Snow leaves tomorrow for Chicago, where he is to take a four years' course in physical education training work at the Chicago Y. M. C. A. college.

During the time that Snow has been with the Oakland Y. M. C. A. he has been actively engaged in the promotion of amateur athletics of all sorts.

For the last five years Snow has been one of the most ardent workers for the Annual Lake Merritt marathon race, having organized teams at the Oakland Y. M. C. A. for that length of time which have always made a good showing in the race.

In addition to training runners at the Oakland "Y," Snow has always been ready and willing to lend a helping hand, anxious to be of assistance in any way which would be a boost for amateur competition.

Associated with W. A. "Bud" Kearns, Snow was one of the leading workers in the organization and promotion of the Industrial Athletic association and has been closely connected with the work done in the organization of the Northern California Amateur Athletic Federation.

In basketball Snow has always been an able leader. A star athlete at the cage game himself, Snow has developed crack weight teams at the Oakland Y. M. C. A., particularly in the 145 pound division and the local "Y" teams have always figured in the local basketball league competition.

While Glenn Williams, who is now in charge of the physical department at the Oakland Y. M. C. A., will miss Snow, he has secured an excellent understudy in Amory P. "Slats" Gill, former Oregon Agricultural College star, who will succeed Snow as assistant physical director.

Gill is well known to basketball fans of Oakland, having been a member of the Oregon Aggie team which played here for the past two seasons during the Christmas vacation period, their games against the Livermore Cowboys having been the center of interest in this section.

As a player, Gill has stood out as one of the bright stars of Bob Hager's O. A. C. team for three seasons, playing forward and rating an all-conference selection. Under Gill's coaching the Oakland "Y" basketball teams are expected to be considerably stronger this season.

Smallest Golf Course Claimed; No Lost Balls

FRESNO, Aug. 14.—A three-hole golf course, believed to be the shortest in the world, has been laid out in the bed of Huntington Lake, a mountain resort, near here. The yardage for the miniature course is 500.

Fresno golf enthusiasts summering at the lake wanted to keep up their game. They began scouting around for some way to get action. Natural greens were found in the bed of the lake, milk cans were sunk for cups and the course was ready. As the fairways are sand, the players maintain it is impossible to lose a ball on the tiny course.

Holman Plays In Junior Net Finals Today

Lott won from Neal Sullivan, Philadelphia, in two easy sets, 6-3, 6-1.

Holman went into the finals by winning from Horace Orser, New York, after he seemed to be hopelessly beaten. Orser took the opening 6-2 and had two match points on the second set, but Holman fought through, taking the set at 11-9 and the final at 6-4.

The finals of the doubles will find George Lott, Chicago, and Thomas McGlynn, Philadelphia, across the net from Emmett Pare, Chicago, and Cranston Holman, San Francisco.

Lott and McGlynn won an uphill semi-final doubles battle from Malcolm T. Hill, Royalston, Mass., and H. L. Johnson, Boston, 1-6, 6-2, 10-8.

Emmett Pare and Cranston Holman defeated Neal Sullivan and Samuel Ewing, Philadelphia, 6-2, 6-4. Pare and Holman were never in danger.

GOLF

Members of the Lake Chabot Golf club will hold their first smoker this evening at the Park Boulevard clubhouse, Newton avenue and Park boulevard, at 8 o'clock.

The affair, which has been postponed a week, will be the occasion for presenting the J. P. Millar and Julius Young trophies to the flight winners of the Lake Chabot Golf club's Independence Day tournament.

W. V. Torgersen was the winner of the Millar cup with Wilbur Ballard runner-up, while Aaron Turner took the Julius Young second flight trophy.

Joe Novak, professional at the Berkeley Country club, will be one of the speakers of the evening, speaking on the subject, "The Most Valuable Club in the Bag."

Bob MacDonald, the popular Sequoyah professional, will be absent from his post for several weeks, having on the advice of his medical adviser decided to undergo an operation. Mac has all the golfing shots that go to make a champion, but has repeatedly failed to last out the distance in strenuous competitions. His many golfing friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Lloyd Hanson Enters Lists For Marathon

Oakland Chapter Order of De Molay Will Have Team in Race.

By DOUG. MONTELL.

Another veteran runner, one who placed eleventh in the Lake Merritt Marathon last year, filed his entry blank yesterday for the Twelfth Annual classic. E. Lloyd Hanson, who stepped the three and one-eighth miles around Lake Merritt the morning of September 10, 1923, will again be a contender for honors in the Admission Day race which takes place in less than four weeks.

Hanson ran an exceptionally good race last year, finishing two minutes behind Wayne Fox, the winner. Hanson's time a year ago was 18:46 and the veteran should do at least a minute better this year, having been in strict training for the past several weeks.

HANSON ENTERS.

Hanson will run under the colors of the Oakland Chapter of the Order of DeMolay and is being counted on by that organization as one of the foremost runners entered.

Nor will Hanson be the only DeMolay runner in the race this year. In filing his entry for the Twelfth Annual TRIBUNE Merritt Marathon yesterday, Hanson said:

"I hope to have the honor of sending in the first entry from the Oakland Chapter Order of DeMolay. I can assure you that you will receive many more, as we are organizing a team which we hope will annex one or more of the team prizes.

Hoping that this year's Marathon will be a greater success than ever, I am

Respectfully yours,
E. LLOYD HANSON.

All of which means that the Oakland DeMolay team should be watched closely in the coming race. Not only is Hanson capable of figuring in the first ten, probably well up among the ten, but there are others of the DeMolay boys who are veterans of previous Marathon runs who should figure prominently.

FOX ELIGIBLE.

It is interesting to note that Wayne Fox, winner of last year's race, is eligible to run under the colors of the Oakland Chapter of the Order of DeMolay.

[illegible] year or not remains to be seen, for last year's winner has made no formal announcement of his intention of participating.

However, Fox is in the pink of condition, having been in strict training and it is believed that he is likely to be a late entry in the [illegible].

Local Women Golfers Will Enter Tourney

Mrs. Milton Bernard of Sequoyah and Mrs. C. F. Ford Placed.

By W. D. McNICOLL.

One of the most popular annual events with women golfers of the Bay district is the city championship tournament, which is held over the Municipal course at Lincoln Park, San Francisco. Eastbay women golfers have invariably done well in former tournaments despite the handicap of crossing the bay and braving the August fogs that prevail at Lincoln Park's short but testing Municipal links.

Mrs. Milton Bernard of Sequoyah, a former holder of the city championship, and Mrs. C. F. Ford of Claremont, last year's winner, will, along with previous holders, enter the championship flight without having to compete in the qualifying round which takes place next Monday, August 18.

More novices participate in this annual tournament than in any other contest, keen on capturing one of the numerous trophies donated by the leading women golfers of the district.

Mrs. J. L. Merple of the Lincoln Park Golf club, is chairman of the tournament committee and is particularly anxious to assist the beginners in every way possible to make their first plunge into competitive golf as pleasant as possible.

No entrance fees or green charges are being made for this event, and the competitors have the privilege of practicing this week free of charge.

Miss Barbara Lee, one of the younger school of golfers at Sequoyah was the outstanding competitor in last year's event.

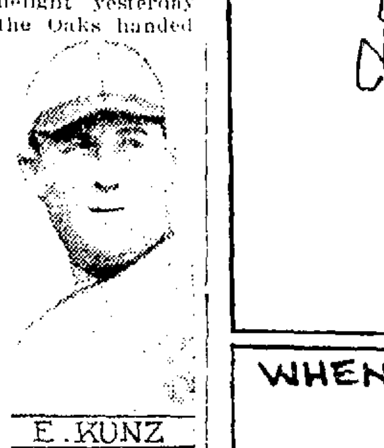
"BUZ" ARLETT MAY GO TO THE ST. LOUIS CARDINALS

Earl Kunz Hurls Oakland Team to Victory Over Beavers as the Seals and Indians Lose in Games Yesterday

Timely Hits Give Locals a 3 to 2 Victory

Kunz, Arlett and Adams Connect In Pinches To Beat Hugh Bedient.

Earl (Pincers) Kunz was very much in the limelight yesterday afternoon when the Oaks handed the Portland Beavers a 3 to 2 beating before a big crowd of fans, who refused to stay at home because of the cold weather. The turnout of the followers of the National pastime took Bill Klepper, the Portland boss, off his feet and he wondered what the turnout would be with good weather prevailing.



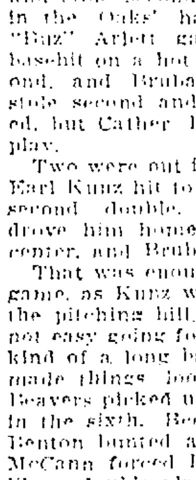
E. KUNZ

Hugh Bedient former major leaguer and world series hero, was on the hill for the Beavers during the first seven innings, but his souphone did not hit its form until after the fourth inning, by which time the Oaks had scored all their runs. He retired them in the order they went to the plate in the next three frames.

PLAY ERRORLESS BALL.

It was a battle worth sitting through the cold to watch, as the Oaks put up an errorless brand of ball, and Kunz allowed only six hits. With Kunz working at top form, the home team looked like the same outfit that drubbed the Seals two weeks ago.

Al Maderas, who is able to prance around again without throwing his shoulder out of place continued to do his heavy hitting when he went to the bat in the second inning, and whaled a ball on a line drive to the left field fence for a double. It just missed going over by a foot. One was out at the time, and then Pete Read fanned, so this left it to Earl Kunz to dent the run column, and he lined a ball against the left center fence for a double, scoring Maderas. Earl died on the paths when McCann forced out Adams.



A. MADERAS

Cochrane's single, Bedient's sacrifice and Benton's single in the third tied the score, and Benton was run down between second and first when Adams cut off a throw from Cather.

ARLETT IN PINCH.

Ray Brubaker singled past short, and stole second as Guisto fanned in the Oaks' half of the third. "Buz" Arlett gathered himself a basehit on a hot bounder over second, and Brubaker scored. Buz stole second and LaFayette walked, but Cather hit into a double play.

Two were out in the fourth when Earl Kunz hit to right field for his second double. Spencer Adams drove him home with a single to center, and Brubaker skied out.

That was enough to win the ball game, as Kunz was in top form on the pitching hill. However, it was not easy going for the Oaks, as any kind of a long basehit would have made things look bad after the Beavers picked up their second run in the sixth. Bedient got a single, Benton bunted a fly to Kunz and McCann forced Bedient. It looked like a double play would be turned in, but Adams' throw to Guisto was too tough to handle. A walk to Cox put McCann on second, and he scored on High's hit to left. Cather got Wolfer's long fly to center.

OAKS MAKE GAIN.

No more hits off Kunz until Cox the first batter in the ninth, singled. High flew to Arlett who got the ball near the right field score boards, and Wolfer hit to Adams, and a double play, via Brubaker and Guisto, resulted.

As the Seals and Indians were both defeated yesterday, the Oaks are again only six games from the top of the ladder.

Louis Guisto, at first base, and Earl Kunz featured with some snappy fielding. In the sixth Kunz snared Benton's pop on a bunt and threw high to first in trying for a double play, but Guisto leaped into the air and speared the ball with one hand. In the eighth, McCann was robbed of a basehit when Guisto, far off first, fielded a grounder and tossed to Kunz, who dashed over to cover the first bag. The score:

Southland Club Yachts Repeat Win in Races

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 14.—Scotland Sailing Club entries of Balboa in the second annual regatta of the Pacific Coast Yacht association and the fourth annual regatta of the Southern California Yachting association, repeated their big victory of Monday in the final small boat races yesterday afternoon on Glorietta bay and won three of the four Pacific Coast championships in this division.

The Southland club won the class A championship for Chula Vista one designers; class B, Marions, and class C, Sea Mews. The San Diego Yacht club captured the fourth championship, class D, for miscellaneous handicap sloops.

Felix Farwell's Mariposa scored victory in class A, winning by 43 seconds from Sumner and Prizer's Lark of San Diego over a mile triangular course.

Don D. E. Roy Davidson's trim Marion, brought the second title to the Southland club with a victory in her class. The Gray Goose, Commodore H. M. Worcester's Marion, which won the Monday race, was second. These two boats will race off, later in the week, for the Pacific Coast title.

Geo. Boehler Is Injured by Batted Ball

GEORGE BOEHLER, right handed hurler for the Oaks, will not be able to work against the Portland Beavers this week as he was hit on the right wrist by a ball batted by "Buz" Arlett in batting practice on Tuesday. It was a line drive in the direction of Boehler's head, and the pitcher ducked and threw up his hands for protection.

The club doctor has told Boehler not to do any pitching for a week at least. It was thought at first that a small bone had been broken.

Americans Are Prominent in Tailteann Games

DUBLIN, Aug. 14.—J. J. Heany of the United States defeated O'Reilly by three games to one in the deciding match of a handball tournament of Tailteann games today.

O'Rielly was the first Irishman to win a single game from the American, who crossed with deadly accuracy, killed at will and picked balls from the ground with both hands. Brennan of Ireland defeated O'Donnell of the United States.

The Dublin newspapers commented enthusiastically on the performances of the American athletes in the track and field events yesterday, especially on the six victories of Harold M. Osborne of the Illinois A. C. The Americans broke three Irish records.

Yesterday was America's day at the Tailteann. The Americans took first in six of the seven track and field events. Harold Osborne's wonderful jumping and the new record established by Jackson V. Scholz of 21 2-5 seconds in the 200 meters excited the greatest enthusiasm. Osborne won the standing jump, breaking the Irish record, the running high jump and the standing three jumps.

Matt McGrath won the hammer throw, Scholz the 200 meters and Dan Kensey the 110-meters hurlde. Winter of Australia captured the hop, step and jump, the only event which was not won by America, but Osborne was second.

In the Decathlon competition Kinsey took the 400 meters, with Osborne second and Shanahan, Ireland, third.

Bees Even Up Series With 3 to 2 Victory

Pitching Duel Between Shea and O'Neill Provides Real Entertainment.

SALT LAKE, Aug. 14. — The Salt Lake Bees evened their series with the San Francisco Seals yesterday when they took a 3 to 2 verdict in one of the few games played here this year in which the teams failed to score more runs. The game was a real pitchers' battle between Pat Shea and Harry O'Neill, and the Salt Lake fans were treated to real baseball throughout as the fielding of the two teams as well as the excellent pitching was sensational.

The Bees hopped out in front with a two-run lead in the second inning, when with one out, Lewis bounced a hit off of Shea's glove and went to third when Pittinger hit a double to left. Peters slapped a grounder over second base to score the pair. Pittinger's double was the only extra base hit the Bees made off of Shea, while O'Neill held the Seals to two.

The pitchers twirled even better ball than the small number of hits show, for three times Pat Shea forced the Bees to hit into double plays, while twice O'Neill reaped the benefit of double killings.

Rivaling the pitching exhibition of the day, was the work of the two infields, especially Hal Rhyne and Pete Kilduff, who made some wonderful stops and figured in double plays. As for the hitting, Mulligan was responsible for the Seals' only run, scoring while Peters and Lindimore drove in runners for the Bees.

Bert Ellison and Peters were the only players in the game to maul the horsehide for more than one hit. This pair succeeded in garnering a couple of hits each. The score:

Rickey Likes "Buz" Arlett, Al Maderas

Cardinal Manager Wants Oaks to Give Him First Crack at Outfielder.

By EDDIE MURPHY.

Branch Rickey, vice-president and manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, is now on his way east. Branch came here only with the idea of looking over Stockton as a training site for the Cards and also to arrange some exhibition games for them, but he learned a lot more than he expected and the chances are that several ballplayers of the Coast league will wear Cardinal uniforms next season.

Following the game between the Oaks and Beavers last Tuesday, Rickey asked Del Howard to chat with him in a private room at the ball park for a few minutes. He told the vice-president of the Oaks that he was sweet on 'Buz' Arlett and that he also liked the way Al Maderas handled himself in the ball field.

"BUZ" A GREAT HITTER.

Rickey has about made up his mind that he wants Arlett in spite of the fact that the big outfielder has the reputation of not having a strong throwing arm. He has told Howard that he would not expect to get Arlett if his arm was good and strong, as he believes the other fifteen major league clubs would all be bidding for him. The Cardinal manager believes that Arlett is one of the best hitters he ever looked at, and Branch has looked at plenty of them.

Arlett's throwing arm is not as bad as some people think, and there are ballplayers in the league to say the same thing. When necessary the big boy can peg the ball around pretty good. There is a chance that Arlett's arm will grow stronger during the coming winter. Rickey thinks so well of Arlett, that he has asked Del Howard to allow him to get in with the first bid if he is to be sold, and Howard agreed.

GOOD FOR FIRST BASE.

The Cards now have Bottomly for first base, and they do not make them much better. but Rickey has been advised that it would be a good idea to take Arlett and develop him for first base so that he could step in any time that Bottomly may have to be out of the lineup. Rickey would also be glad to take him for pinch-hitting purposes. Rickey saw Arlett in at least five ball games, and each time the big outfielder treated him with some long drives. He saw him make his record hit at Los Angeles last week.

Rickey promised to give the Oaks a good wad of cash for Arlett, but Del Howard told him that players would have to be given in the deal. "You can have the pick of three or four men from about thirty or forty we have in the majors and scattered in the smaller leagues," said Rickey. But Howard replied that it was quality and not quanity that the Oaks were looking for. "We can give that also," Rickey again said.

CARDS NEED PLAYERS.

Rickey says that the Cardinals can use a good, hard-hitting outfielder of the Arlett type and a catcher and third sacker. He saw the catcher who would fit in nicely with the Cards, and he was "Mickey" Cochran of the Portland Beavers. He also saw Al Maderas in the same number of games that he did "Buz" Arlett, and the Oakland third sacker made quite a hit by his work around the torrid corner. Maderas also treated Rickey to some long-distance hitting, as Branch was present when he socked the ball over the left-field wall at Los Angeles last week, and when he hit the top of the left-field fence on the local lot Tuesday. Maderas hit the top of the left-center fence yesterday. Maderas is a good hustler, and Rickey is always strong for that type of player.

McCANN A PROSPECT.

It has been said that Rickey feels there is little hope of landing Cochrane. The Beavers placed a price of $50,000 on him a short time ago, but according to reports, Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics has first call on him. It seems that Scout Tom Turner of the Braves made some kind of an agreement with Mack when Cochrame was picked from Boston college.

Emmet McCann, second sacker for the Portland Beavers, is another player who is under the watchful eyes of the big league clubs this season, and maybe Rickey has given him a tumble. He had a good day when Rickey looked at him last Tuesday, handling ten chances around second base and getting a pair of hits. The Brooklyn Dodgers wanted him just a month ago, but the Beaver owners refused to close the deal at this time of the season.

St. Louis Now Six Contests Behind Yanks

Two Close Games Lost to Champions. Darken Browns' Chances.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Within 24 hours the pennant chances of the St. Louis Browns have faded from a bright rose to an olive drab. When Sisler's men invaded New York yesterday they were but four games behind the then second-place New Yorkers. Today they are six contests to leeward of the world champions.

The Browns lost two heart-breaking games to the Yanks by scores of 1 to 0 and 2 to 1. As the results indicate, both battles were decided by single combat between the rival moundsmen.

After cinching the curtain raiser by 8 to 4 and establishing a six-run lead in the second, Detroit collapsed at the feet of the Athletes in the fifth inning and the White Elephants won out, 8 to 7, in the eleventh.

Coveleskie held Washington safe at all stages, while his fellow Indians hammered out a 5-to-1 victory.

Practically hitproof pitching was the principal factor in Boston's two-ply killing of Chicago. In the opener Ehmke shut out the White Sox and Fullerton and Quinn did almost as well in the final. The scores were 6 to 0 and 4 to 1.

Six games instead of seven oday separate the Pirates from the league-leading Giants in the Nationals as a result of the former's 4-to-2 decision over the champions.

Other Heydler clubs enjoyed a holiday.

Dirt Track Practice Started in South

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—Practice, for the inaugural American Automobile Association dirt track races to be staged next Sunday at Culver City, near here, started yesterday, when Harlan Pengler, Eddie Hearne, Jerry Wonderlich and several other drivers appeared on the oval and began tuning up their cars.

Sunday's inaugural meet, which for a time appeared uncertain, owing to a dispute over leases between the Western Racing Association and Dick Ferris, original promoter of the track, apparently was assured when the association obtained a temporary restraining injunction against Ferris.

Lewis Defends Title Against Joe Mondt

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, successfully defended his title here last night, defeating Joe "Toots" Mondt of Boulder, Colo., with a head lock in one hour, 36 minutes. Mondt put up a good battle and had the champion on the defensive on several occasions.

In one of the perliminaries, Pat McGill of Omaha defeated Nick Velchoff, Bulgarian, in 18 minutes with a leg scissors and arm lock.

FOUR SPECIAL WIRE SERVICES

PLENTY OF CARS TO MOVE CROPS IS RAIL PROMISE

Fruit and Grain Cars Being Assembled at Centers in Large Numbers.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—With the crop movement under way the Western Railway Association states that its roads are in better shape to move the traffic than probably ever before.

Two conditions are enabling them thus far to handle the crop as fast as it is offered to them, says a statement issued by the Association. On July 31 they had assembled and stored in the grain loading territory about 42,000 cars fit for grain loading. This is about 10,000 more than they had assembled a year before. In addition, the Western roads [illegible] more of their own box cars on their own lines than they had a year ago.

The total shipments of grain and grain products are now exceeding those of last year. In the week ended July 12 the total number of cars loaded was 41,970, an increase of about 2500 cars over the corresponding week of last year. In Western territory alone the number of cars of grain and grain products loaded was 29,489, an increase of 2778 cars over the corresponding week in 1923. Some of the railways moving grain from the winter wheat territory are breaking all previous records.

REFRIGERATOR SERVICE.

The farmers produce vast quantities of fruits and vegetables which must be transported in refrigerator cars. A great deal of difficulty has been experienced in previous years in handling this kind of traffic because there has been such a very great increase in it. The railways in 1922 moved 439,275 cars of fruit, 444,879 cars of vegetables, and 320,889 cars of fresh meats, poultry, eggs and dairy products, a total of 1,205,046 cars of perishable products.

This business in 1923 was at least 50,000 cars larger. There were severe congestions of refrigerator cars in many terminals, and in consequence, serious delays in their movement, largely because of excessive detention of them by shippers for reconsignment and other reasons. On April 20, 1923, there was a total of 142,218 refrigerator cars available, and on April 20, 1924, this had increased to 151,621. On the latter date the car builders also had orders for 9255 refrigerator cars which were under construction, and some of which have now been delivered.

BETTER CAR SUPPLY.

In consequence the supply of cars available for handling perishables will be larger than last year. In addition, co-operative arrangements have been made by the railways and the shippers through the Regional Shippers' Boards, which it is believed will prevent such congestions and delays as occurred last year. All the larger organizations of fruit and vegetable shippers are parties to these arrangements.

The unusually good condition the railways are in to handle the country's crops is due to several causes, the statement of the Association continues. One of these is the extraordinary expenditures that were made last year to put all equipment in repair, and that have been made this year to keep it in repair. This applies to both locomotives and cars. Another reason is the extraordinary expenditures that were made by the railways last year for new equipment.

A third reason is that the railways now have better arrangements to co-operate among themselves through the Car Service Division in the distribution and handling of cars than they had before. Finally, and of great importance, are the Regional Advisory Shippers' Boards which have been organized within the last two years in all parts of the country. These boards which, as their name implies, are composed of shippers of commodities of all kinds, hold regular joint meetings with the officers of the railways in their territories at which information and suggestions are exchanged by the two parties regarding the transportation situation and the measures that should be adopted by both of them to get the most and best possible use from the railway equipment that is available.

Warmington Back From Eastern Trip

That New York financiers and eastern manufacturers look forward to a banner year beginning almost at once and are laying their plans of operation accordingly is the statement of A. L. Warmington, western manager of the Durant corporation, who has just returned from the East.

"They consider the political situation as having cleared," he says, "and the increased activities of basic industries indicate very good times ahead."

[illegible] York [illegible] with W. C. Durant, head of Durant Motors, Inc., and [illegible] had the opportunity of meeting first-hand contact with many of America's greatest captains of industry.

DRIED FRUITS

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—[illegible] 5 to 15 cents a pound came into the raw silk market as continued quiet prevailed in trading. The cotton goods market also was quiet, with prices unchanged. Print cloths stood at 5½ cents for 64 to 60 and 1⅛ for 68 to 72.

P. G. & E. Gets New Stock Permit; Shorts Hard Put in Market Rally; Drought Menaces Utility Bonds; State Oil Output Is Slightly Off

By H. S. SCOTT.

Possibly because the 1 per cent dividend rate was not increased on the face of a report of record earnings, Paraffine common stock sold down 2 points today from above 66 to about 64 on the San Francisco market. The company yesterday declared its fifth quarterly dividend of $1 on this stock and the activity today was the greatest since the common got "on its feet."

The oils were again weak. An increase of 15 cents a pound by the refiners will probably firm up the Hawaiian sugar stocks, though they remained quiet today.

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company today was authorized by the Railroad Commission to issue 50,000 shares of its common capital stock to be sold at not less than 93 a share. The purpose of this large issue, which approximates $5,000,000, was given as covering additions and betterments to the corporation's plant.

The commission provided that the new stock must be sold at not less than 93 net to the company. The company just recently completed the sale of $5,000,000 worth of its common stock. The issue was absorbed with avidity by the investing public and this new issue is expected to have equally popular reception. P. G. and E. common stock is paying 8 per cent dividends and yesterday sold at 96, a new high.

Prices displayed a firm tone in New York as realizing sales came to an end for the time being and speculative traders again favored the long side of the market itself, rather than the influence of outside factors, were mostly instrumental in sending prices to slightly higher levels and in giving a semblance of strength to stocks which closed the previous session weak and irregular. The shorts were hard put to cover commitments.

Independent steel stocks were attacked in the first hour on the theory that dividends of some of the other steel stocks were in danger and that forthcoming reports from a number of prominent companies would be disappointing.

Crucible was pounded down to 49 but on reports from Syracuse that business looked at the company's plants was higher and operations were being expanded, the stock staged a good comeback and sold two points higher.

While industrials made their best showing in the first period, the railroads, which had lagged behind, came into prominence around noon and higher prices were recorded for most of the active stocks in this group. Baltimore & Ohio, Lehigh Valley, Reading, St. Louis-San Francisco preferred, St. Paul, Canadian Pacific and Northern Pacific were prominent in this period. Frisco preferred going to a new high at 57¾ on reports that the small outstanding volume of stock in this issue would soon be put on a dividend basis. The failure of the Southern Pacific directors to increase the dividend on the common stock was neither a surprise nor a disappointment to the financial district, though it was freely rumored that such a change would be made.

General Electric staged a strong rally in which it rose about six points to a new high on the present movement; Mack Truck sold up 2 points to a new high at 97½. Marine preferred led a brisk upward movement in the shipping stocks; American Woolen, American Telephone and Telegraph, Westinghouse Electric and others of the standard dividend paying industrials showed the effects of a stronger investment demand, and the biscuit company stocks which featured the last two sessions showed they were able to retain their recent gains.

Unless the State Railroad Commission grants the Southern California Edison Company a temporary raise of 20 per cent in power rates, the stability of California public utilities on eastern financial markets will be materially affected, Henry W. Robinson, member of the late Dawes reparations committee, declared there yesterday in the second hearing of the proposition before Clyde W. Seavey, president of the railroad commission, and Commissioner Egerton Shore.

Robinson's testimony bulwarked that of A. N. Kemp, a banker, who testified earlier in the day that eastern security buyers had gained the impression that the California State Railroad Commission had been lenient enough to grant rate which would insure reasonable returns to investors. He said if this policy were reversed it would be detrimental to California public utilities securities in the future.

Kemp also stated that a reduction of dividends of the company in the present crisis from 8 per cent to 6 per cent would be of more injury than using surplus funds.

He stated that the future development of the company depended upon the faith of 70,000 stockholders throughout the nation.

Officials of Southern California water companies declared that crops had been hampered in their productivity by the curtailment of power.

SUGAR INTERESTS EMBROILED OVER TARIFF FIGURES

Proposed Reduction of 26 Cents Promises to Raise Lively Row.

By LEO A. McCLATCHY.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—With the majority membership of the tariff commission recommending a reduction on Cuban sugar duty from $1.76 to $1.50 per hundred pounds, and the minority of the same body urging that the present rate be continued in effect to prevent an alleged combination of American and British capitalists from gaining complete control of the market and ruining the Hawaiian cane and the American beet sugar interests, there has been placed before President Coolidge an issue that will require much thought and study.

Under the existing tariff act, the president has the power to raise or lower rates in the law as much as 50 per cent when, in his judgment, such action is deemed advisable as the result of changing costs of production.

As sugar is one commodity in which everyone is interested, the recommendations made to the executive by the two factions in the tariff commission already have produced a volume of comment which indicate the issue will become one of considerable importance in the November elections.

WHITE HOUSE SILENT.

Reports from the White House are that it is unlikely any action will be taken by the president for several months. Request has been made of him by former Senator Porter J. McCumber, now representing the Louisiana sugar producers, that he defer a decision until the Louisiana growers have had an opportunity either to appear before him or to file a brief. McCumber says there are a number of facts not considered by the commission which, he thinks, will convince the president the present rates ought to be continued in effect. As chairman of the senate finance committee, McCumber was coauthor of the present law. The probability is that other organizations and interests will ask for the same privilege. While there has come from the White House no indication of the president's attitude on sugar rates, it has been made known for him that he is a firm believer in the protective tariff policy, and in this, those who are opposing a reduction find the basis for hope.

CUBA HOLDS KEY.

While the majority report advises the president that the recommended reduction can be carried into effect without injury to the Hawaiian cane and American beet sugar interests, the minority contends it will drive these interests out of business, and place domination of the entire sugar market in an alleged combination of American and British capitalists who are said to control 75 per cent of the Cuban output. There would [illegible] international sugar trust of such huge dimensions that the sugar consuming public would be mulcted out of millions of dollars.

HOUR BY HOUR PRICE CHANGES

PRUNES SELLING RATE OF MILLION POUNDS PER DAY

Market Is Strong and Outlook Is Declared For Continued Demand.

Sales of 1923 prunes averaging virtually a million pounds a day have been made since the first of the present month by the California Prune and Apricot Growers' Association, it is announced by President I. O. Rhoades, who is acting as general manager in the absence of A. M. Mortensen, now in the East.

Up to the close of business Tuesday, it was stated, sales of 1923 crop prunes had totaled more than 8,460,000 pounds, at prices slightly better than those previously in effect, while the market is still strong, with good prospects for a continuing demand. Sales are for delivery during August and September.

NO OREGON HOLDOVER.

An encouraging feature of the situation is the fact that the 1923 crop of Oregon prunes has been cleaned up, as announced in dispatches published yesterday morning in which it was stated that approximately 1,000,000 pounds had been sold for August and early September delivery. From the viewpoint of the association officials this is good news, since it eliminates competition from that source and makes the Prune Association's position in the market just that much stronger.

The renewed confidence of the trade in the prune situation is regarded as one of the most significant indications of increasing business from now on, President Rhoades said, and the outlook is considerably brighter than at any time in the last three years.

"The special drive on carton goods, which the association has been conducting during the past week, has netted highly gratifying results, not only in the number and size of sales made but even more in the prestige acquired for the association's 'Sunsweet' brand. Purchasers of carton prunes carry the brand right into their households, thereby becoming educated in California quality and association products, instead of merely buying prunes as 'prunes' and nothing more," says President Rhoades.

"Moreover, it was stated, the trade now appears to be more willing to adopt this mode of handling prunes, the former preference for bulk goods becoming constantly less noticeable. This, also, is construed as an indication of growing favor for the association brand and products, and an increased appreciation of association quality."

Wickwire Spencer Reorganization Told

Preferred stockholders and first mortgage bond holders of the Wickwire-Spencer Steel Corporation, which has been embarrassed by lack of working capital, are receiving copies of a plan of financial readjustment. Under this plan the first mortgage 7 per cent bondholders are to exchange their present bonds for new first mortgage bonds of the same principal amount, interest rate, maturity dates and redemption price. No sinking fund will be payable under the new mortgage until 1925 and thereafter a reduced sinking fund. No lien will be included on quick assets as the provision in the present mortgage for such a lien has seriously hampered the company in obtaining bank credits and seemingly has not benefitted the bond holders.

Each holder of one share ($100 par value) of the present preferred stock will receive without any payment by him five shares of new common stock of no par value. (There will be no preferred stock of the new company). Each holder of one share of the present preferred stock will have the privilege of subscribing $20 to a new issue of $2,515,000 of class A 7 per cent notes, due in five years (which will be prior in lien to $3,629,060 of series B 6 per cent notes, due in five years taken by the banks in payment of all their indebtedness). For this subscription, in addition to the $20 note, the subscriber will receive three and one-half shares of the new common stock. In other words, if a holder pays additional money to the extent of one-fifth of his present investment, he will receive therefor the full equivalent in a prior lien note and a total of eight and one-half shares of stock instead of five for each one share of preferred stock.

If a receivership occurred bankers fear that the properties might be disintegrated by the foreclosure of the 7½ per cent notes secured by the valuable stock in the American Wire Fabrics Corporation, which is a subsidiary and the first mortgage bond holders might be called upon to accept in part stock in a disintegrated company or in order to preserve the properties might be required to subscribe additional cash. Stockholders in such a case will lose their entire equity.

Indiana Power Co. Bonds Sold Here

A new offering of first mortgage bonds of one of the public utilities included in the system generally known as the "Insull group" was brought out today by a syndicate headed by E. H. Rollins & Sons and Halsey Stuart & Company. These new securities are $1,500,000 Indiana Hydro-Electric Power Company First Mortgage Series "B" 6% Bonds due 1954, which are offered at 95½ and interest, to yield about 6.35%.

This company has recently completed and put in operation a modern hydro-electric power plant on the Tippecanoe river in Northern Indiana and these new bonds are being sold to provide in part the funds necessary for additional hydro-electric development.

Cantaloupes Under Probe on Highway

MODESTO, Aug. 14.—While state inspectors continue to stop cantaloupe trucks on the highway and force draymen to unload them for inspection, a protest was lodged by the draymen today. They declare the procedure is unfair to them, since they are not responsible for the fruit and lose time and money in the process.

County Horticultural Commissioner A. Rutherford countered with the statement that the draymen, who are carrying the fruit direct to the bay market from Turlock, should demand a certificate of inspection of the shippers.

Rutherford admitted that the shippers have not been issuing these certificates, but said no doubt they would do so if it were demanded.

For the first time in the history of the cantaloupe industry state inspectors line up along the highway all of the cantaloupe trucks and inspected there instead of at the shipping points. They condemned 51 crates of cantaloupes because they were too green or sunburned.

EASTERN MARKETS

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—With the selling which movement getting under way, better weather conditions in the Canadian Northwest, and weakness in prices at Liverpool, the wheat market here had a downward tendency today during the early dealings. Hedging sales counted also to be a depressing factor. Meanwhile an upturn in foreign exchange failed to exert any apparent influence. Opening prices, which ranged from ⅛c to 1⅜c lower, with September $1.27 to 1.27¼ and December $1.30¾ to 1.31, were followed by a little rally, but then by fresh downturns.

Cool weather led to a decided fresh advance in the value of corn. December and May touched new high price records for the season. After opening at ⅛c off to ⅝c up, December $1.05⅞ to 1.06, prices scored all around, and then scored a sharp advance.

Oats rose with corn, starting ⅛c lower to ½c higher, December 52 to 52⅛c, and later showed moderate gains. Higher quotations on hogs and corn gave firmness to provisions.

Russia May Have Surplus of Wheat

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Advices to the State Department report that an exportable surplus of 150,000,000 poods of Russian grain is available, according to the Izvestia which estimates the Russian grain crop this year at 3,618,000,000 poods (about sixty poods equal a ton). The "Agriculture of Federation Republic," however, estimated the same crop at 2,800,000,000 before the crop failure, which was thought extensive.

SHIPS AND SHIPPING
News of Oakland Waterfront

Edited by FRANK CLIFF

ESTABLISH U. S. SHIP POLICY OR WITHDRAW SHIPS

Congressional Board Is Firm in Opinion That One Must Be Done.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Members of the [illegible] House committee investigating the Shipping Board returned [illegible] of European [illegible] that [illegible] policy should be [illegible] or that Shipping Board vessels should be withdrawn from the seas immediately, Representative Davis, Democrat, of Tennessee, [illegible] of the committee, said before leaving for his home in Tennessee.

The whole organization, Davis said, is being handicapped by the European idea that the United States ships are in service only temporarily. At every turn on the European trip this problem arose, he declared, adding that owners of docking facilities hesitated to grant leases, capable men declined employment and shippers hesitated to transfer their business to American lines.

The committee will recommend a policy to maintain an American merchant marine permanently, Davis stated, explaining, however, that this did not necessarily contemplate it would be operated permanently under the Shipping Board, but rather only until competent private concerns could take over the lines.

During the tour Davis said they did not discover any national prejudice against the American lines, but did find keen competition. Taken as a whole, he declared, the business was increasing, prospects were brightening and the future was promising.

At all of the ports, the representative said, the committee found immigrants awaiting transportation to America and some of the steamship companies were losing heavily by being forced to feed and house many who had purchased tickets to America and were being held up by immigration restrictions.

50-YEAR LEASES HELD NEED FOR HARBOR GROWTH

City Charter Amendment Declared Necessary to Change Terms.

An amendment to the city charter, which would make possible the granting of fifty-year leases on the [illegible] waterfront instead of limiting [illegible] to twenty-five years as at present, will be necessary before [illegible] harbor possibilities can be fully developed, according to the belief of speakers at a meeting of the Western Waterfront Industries Association.

Under present conditions, due principally to the 25-year lease system, no manufacturing plant would ever be starting in operation on the Oakland waterfront, the members of the association were told by K. Freitag, president of the F. A. B. Manufacturing Company. H. D. Ainsworth, vice-president of the same company, said that the industrial future of Oakland was at stake.

E. G. Barr, assistant manager of the Union Construction Company, declared that: "It is practically impossible to interest any industry in leasing waterfront land on a 25-year basis.

"The city has not given the facilities that were promised leaseholders on the waterfront, involving dredging, filling and other improvements," he said.

"Leaseholders are today in the position of being unable to fully capitalize on their holdings, and their leases, in place of being for 25 years, have but 19 years to run. If you think it is a hard proposition to talk to a business man on 25 years, talk to him on a 19-year basis, and without the full accommodations that any individual expects when he is doing business on waterfront land or over a deep-water terminal."

Leviathan Makes Port Late With Crippled Gear

Several Congressmen Studying Shipping Are On Liner.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The United States liner Leviathan arrived here last night, one day late as a result of an accident at sea last week that crippled one of her four propellers. The liner is scheduled to leave for Boston early today to go into drydock while the propeller is being repaired.

Several members of a congressional investigation committee which has been studying shipping abroad were taken off the vessel at quarantine by a revenue cutter. The members who returned were Representative W. F. Lineberger of California, E. L. Davis of Tennessee, and W. B. Bankhead of Alabama.

The committee will not make public its report but will submit it to congress at the next session. Two of its members remained abroad to study American shipping conditions in the Mediterranean.

TODAYS SHORT STORY

by Ad Schuster

A CUP OF PANSIES.

A FADED picture of pansies in a blue cup. To Florence Turner it stood for her unhappiness; it was the revelation of a husband's neglect and the end of romance.

The wife stood before the picture which had been put aside in the attic long ago and there came back to her the days when she had painted it. Cambridge had stood by wondering when she applied the finishing touches. He had even said that he loved—she remembered the delightful fear which came into his eyes—that she would not let an art career stand in the way of . . . Then he had proposed and the picture was the prized ornament in the little house that was theirs in those blissful days before there were money and success and—she sighed—the disillusionment of years.

Now the picture was in the attic, Cambridge Turner, the slim youth of other days, had filled out and was the picture of a prosperous merchant. She wondered how she looked to him, how it had happened that these changes had taken place? It had all been so gradual and neither had realized.

"The day he let me take the picture down," she said, "must have been the turning point. I thought he would miss it, ask for it, and he never did." Florence Turner raised her apron to her eyes and wept. Suddenly she stopped, stood erect and defiant as if making a resolve.

"You are too old for romance," she told herself. "It is time for you to be sensible. Cambridge is a model husband. Maybe he is too good for you."

"All the same," she said after a little while, "I must get rid of this picture."

The rummage sale of the Ladies' Aid was enriched with the oil painting which had once held so high a place in the Turner home and hearts. With bonnets, shawls, vases and books it was put in the window to turn its faded face to the passing crowds. And Florence Turner, who had left it there, walked slowly home making brave resolve that she would act hereafter as a sensible woman of forty.

Cambridge Turner was a little late for dinner. When he appeared it was with a shame-faced air.

"Flo," he said, hesitatingly, "I did something today which maybe you won't understand." There was almost a boyish appeal in his eyes.

"You know," he apologized, "I have always left the decorations of the house to you, ever since we left the little place. The furniture and the pictures, Flo, I have let you choose them, haven't I?"

"Cambridge Turner," the wife interrupted, "what have you been up to now?"

Visibly he wilted. Then, with an effort, he summoned strength.

"I bought something today that I want to have in the house. It reminds me of something else you took away. You know that picture you made of the pansies, the picture I liked so well and you thought wasn't good enough for the new house? Well, I found another, almost like it." He was pitiful in his lack of ease, pitiful a youth's plea of this wife who had turned romance out for the luxuries of wealth.

"It isn't the same and it will never mean so much, but really, it is almost like the picture you painted and I thought, I thought you would not mind my having it in my room."

For a moment he was silent. In her happiness at discovery she watched him, afraid the moment would end.

"I even hoped," he ventured, "you might like it, too. See, it's a picture of pansies in a blue cup! Florence, do you like it?"

"Like it! I love it—and you, too."

"And to think," she said a little later, "I thought we had grown too old for romance."

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

by Adele Garrison

QUICK WIT

THE news that the car, which we feared was trailing us, was just behind us again gave me, curiously enough, no added twinge of terror, but instead a sudden flash of red hot wrath.

"I'd like to wreck that machine," I muttered grimly as I shifted gears and resumed our halting, laborious journey. "But it won't be long now until we know for certain whether he is trailing us. Look out for a bridge, Edwin. We cross it just before we come to Canoe Place Inn."

Slowly we crept along the road, and as slowly behind us came the car which was causing us so much uneasiness. Of course it was possible that the other car was only keeping in the rear because of the advantage of following our rear light, but Edwin's account of the car without lights stationed at the place where the bay road came out into the village savored far too much of espionage for my peace of mind.

"I think the bridge is just ahead," Edwin said quietly.

"Yes, it is, and as soon as we get a few feet higher, we can see the lights of the Inn. There they are now." I gave a little sigh of relief as the ghostly mist before my windshield was pierced by the cherry lights of the famous hostelry.

"I'm going to go faster now," I warned Edwin, "and turn into the Inn driveway without slackening speed. Will you watch the other car?"

"To see what they do when you turn?" he asked, and added without waiting for my affirmative. "You don't miss any bets do you, Madge?"

I was too intent upon my wheel to answer. Although I am an experienced driver, the task before me gave me an uneasiness as real as it was unreasonable. But like most dreaded things, it turned out to be easy of accomplishment, and when I was directly opposite the Inn driveway, I swerved the wheel, and—careening perilously, but safe—the car rolled into the driveway, where I stopped.

"By Jove, they were following us," Edwin said. "They were coming after us at our own gait. Look at them now."

The car was proceeding at a snail's pace, and from one side we could see a head, muffled so that one could not tell whether it was that of a man or a woman, looking back and watching us. The next minute, evidently coming to some decision, they shot on again.

"Turn off your engine," Edwin suggested, "so we can hear what they are doing."

I already had done so, and as the rear light of the other car disappeared into the fog, and the chug of their engine grew fainter, I began to wonder whether we were not mistaking the ordinary curiosity of fog-bound travelers for something more sinister. But, in another few seconds, there was a change in the noise to which we were listening, and Edwin spoke quickly.

"They are turning around."

I turned my switch key quickly and started the engine.

"What are you going to do?" Edwin asked.

"Go on as we have started." I answered. "The lights of their car will help up on a little way, and then we'll come to the road lights leading into Hampton Bay. They will have to turn around again and anything is better than waiting to see what they are going to do."

"I agree with you," he said heartily, as we rolled out into the road and started down it at a smart pace. Behind us a doorman of the Inn, who belatedly had appeared at the entrance stared in puzzled fashion after us, and then went back into the lighted hostelry again.

"He probably thinks we mistook this place for the sanitarium to which we ought to be headed," Edwin commented, and then with warning, he added, "You are over on the wrong side of the road, Madge."

"I mean to be," I said grimly, and I kept my car at the left, with the result for which I wished. The advancing car, plainly puzzled, slowed up a bit and began to edge over to the right. As they did so I turned a bit to the right myself, as if I had seen my own error, and then when I was almost upon them, swerved again, crowding them off the road, and bringing them up with a snapping rending sound against the bushes by the roadside.

"I believe you've done the trick, Madge," Edwin said, as two men scrambled out of the car. "Nobody hurt, and the car perhaps out of commission, at least delayed. I take off my cap to you."

TRIAL MARRIAGE AND TRIALS OF MARRIAGE

WHEN RELIGION AND DAY BY DAY LIFE MIX

A free-for-all love, marriage and divorce debate constituted the program for Sunday, June 29. Those taking part were the Pros and Cons, who have evidently fallen short, so far, in their attempts to solve the ever present, ever popular problem of marriage. For, after all of our pro-ing and conning; after we're quite satisfied that we have sent the vexing question on its way rejoicing, it has a way of coming back, elbowing its way right through a flock of other patient problems that would like to be solved, and thrusting its head through the door with the wail, "I'm not solved yet!"

So here we go again today. Dem Quitox seems to have thrown a little bomb into the discussion on that eventful Sunday with his views of honeymoons and trial marriages. Here's a little steam escaping in his honor!

Dear Geraldine:

After the encouraging reception of my last letter, I could not resist the temptation to write again. Certainly the temptation is one that is not always healthy to resist, for the human mind must have a safety valve of some sort that will eliminate the dangerous effects of an explosion.

My judicious escape of steam today is caused primarily by Dem Quitox's ideas of trial marriages. Like every other question, it has two sides. There is no getting away from the fact that the family is the nucleus of the nation and because of this it must be well organized and happy. Disrupted family life makes an unstable race and government. To accomplish a big end we must many times sacrifice the little things that are held dear. If there is discontent and unhappiness in the family, is it not better to get a divorce and so separate ways happily than to live in an environment where nagging and bitter tears of regret or passion cut irreparable wounds into the heart and sear a dread and untrue opinion of married life into the minds of the children? Would a trial marriage prevent this union of unsuited souls?

As to the honeymoon, no! I certainly do not think that it displays the height of love and devotion. Certainly there is more demonstrativeness and attention. There always is in a novel situation, but it is largely superficial. It is the respect, the admiration, the deep down love that comes when the highway of married life has been tried and found rocky and uncertain, but has been faced squarely with a 50-50 share of life's burden. That is the height of love and devotion. Real true love is understanding, sympathy, and good sportsmanship in the game of life. Perhaps this may sound foolish to some, but I know it is true, for my father and mother, although they have been married seventeen years, grow more and more in love with each other every day. But they are not "mushy" or "struck" as the popular idea of loves goes. They are just the very best of pals, practical, sympathetic, but also most obviously affectionate. They are happy, so we are too.

Now comes the question of children. It is fair to the nation and to the children themselves that they should have parents unequal to the responsibilities of a family? Would it not be far, far better for the world if a physical and mental test were required for marriage? But is it fair to deprive any human of the joys of parenthood? And right here comes the call of the nation. To have a healthy progressive race, we must have healthy intelligent people. We must sacrifice the smaller things for the large. Look at the filthy, immoral condition of the slums. With the aforementioned tests, a large part of this would be eliminated. Look at the millions of dollars expended for the uplifting of man and womanhood through the civil service and look also at what it has done. Public schools and compulsory education are wonderful things. Baby clinics, health centers and child labor laws have done a great deal and still have lots to do. Surely then, healthy, happy marriages are the most wonderful and the most necessary things in the world.

Well, Jerry, I guess this is enough raving for this time. Never having been married and not expecting to be for quite a while, these views of mine are probably idealistic and rather wild, but then I know you will understand. The kids are calling me to come out and play baseball, so goodbye until next time.

DIANA.

Although you are "not married and not expecting to be for quite awhile," your inexperience has not prevented your hitting one of my choice nails on the head and inspiring me with a desire to seize the hammer and help you drive it in. That's the honeymoon nail, which you've given such a resounding bang.

I'm not a cynic, though some folks think I am because I happen to smile a little up my sleeve when I hear delighted spectators of newly wedded bliss remark: "How devoted they are. I'm so glad the match is successful." Of course I could smile and acquiesce in my sweetest tones, "Yes, ain't love grand." But honesty compels me to reply, "Of course. We're all devoted and happy while the honeymoon is shining. It's when the moon begins to wane, or a cloud rolls right over its face, that I'm most interested in seeing love still shining through."

When I catch a glimpse of two old sweethearts, with cheeks like withered apples, still plodding along arm in arm with the lovelight in their eyes unfaded, I'm willing then to bare my head in reverence to enduring love and say "How devoted they are. I'm so glad the match was successful!"

FISHING.

Wee Mary wanted to go fishing. "Aren't there a lot of fish in that lake?"

"Lots of them Mary."

"Could I catch one if I had a hook and line and a worm on it?"

"I think so. Lots of people have done it."

"Then I want to. I want to catch a whole lot and we'll eat them for tea. Let's hurry."

"But first we have to dig worms and then . . .

"All right. You hurry up and dig the worms and I'll meet you at the bottom of the garden path and we'll go down and catch a lot.

So I dug the worms. They are so stupid they do not know enough to get out of the way, and you can't help getting a handful anytime in the damp corner of the garden. Mary was waiting, hook and line and sinker of the approved style lying in the bottom of her basket. "Mother gave me them so they're right," said she.

I rowed along shore to the rocks where the sunnies play about in the weeds and Mary said, "This the place?"

"Yes," said I. "Get your line ready."

She picked it up and handed it to me swiftly and neatly. "You fix it."

"I'll show you how to put the first worm on but you'll have to do the next one yourself."

Wee Mary watched me fix the worm on the hook with an uneasy eye. Gingerly she took the line from me and dropped it over the side. I kept my hand on the line just beyond hers and soon there came the nibble and the jerk that telegraphed the news that another fish had gone wrong. "Pull up. You have one, Mary."

Mary gave a terrific jerk and swished the line and the fish and an armful of weeds and a five-inch sunny around my neck. We disentangled the mess and took off the fish which had been caught slightly in the underlip. "Here, now, where do you want him?" asked I in businesslike fashion.

He's alive, he's alive!" shrilled Mary.

"Of course he is. And wet and slippery at that. Where do you want him?"

"I don't want him when he's alive. Look, he's talking. And his eyes are looking at me. And his mouth is bleeding. Put him right back in the lake," said Mary. So I did.

"Back already?" said mother. "Where are the fish?"

"In the lake," said Mary calmly. "We caught them but we put them back again. I changed my mind about eating them."

Her mother says I did it on purpose, but I really hadn't anything to do with it. Wee Mary hated to hurt the worms and she hated to see the fish looking at her and talking at her that way. That's all.

Again We Have The Discussion About Religion

In spite of the aversion of some folks to religious discussions, we have with us today, two friends who don't believe in carrying either religion or their ideas concerning it under their cloaks and never letting them out for air.

"Religion is action," says one—"how we live, not what we profess to believe." I felt when I read that particular sentence very much like the man who had formed the habit of kneeling by the bed to say his prayers each night. Tired one night, he found a prayer which embraced all that any praying person might wish to say, tacked it above his bed, and wrote beneath it, "Them's my sentiments."

Dear Jerry:

It's like suddenly discovering an oasis in the desert—to stumble upon your refreshing column. After wading through the arid waste of political news, etc., I find it a little haven of rest and interest, and I marvel with what fairness, logic and understanding you answer the Gang's letters. There are so many problems to be met in this life. The sorrows, joys, anxieties are so many and as many people as there are in the world there is a corresponding number of theories, beliefs, opinions, etc., for there are no two people alike and it is this great accumulation of doctrine individualities that go to make up a world,—this particular world which is only one among many, and we—a generation among countless others that have gone before.

Our own little individual lives are just a small part in the great scheme of things. There is much that is hard to understand and yet there is that consolation which comes to us from living according to our own lights—convictions and opportunities and the realization that right wins out in all things.

I have enjoyed the letters discussing religion—especially the one signed "Question." To me religion is action. It is how we live, not what we profess to believe. To do good, we must believe in good and to my mind that is the only religion. No amount of prayers and church attending will usher men's souls wholesale into Heaven. The principles of Christianity are love, tolerance and kindness for others and yet the various sects which are supposed to uphold these principles violate them constantly. The majority of religions as I find them (and I have investigated thoroughly) are antagonistic and intolerant towards one another, and are selfish. They want everyone to buy a ticket from them which will lead into Heaven according to their particular rules and directions, and with a little note stamped down in the corner to the effect that all other tickets are transports to H——.

When I tell you Jerry dear that all that I've said so far is just preliminary to what I really intend to discuss, most probably you'll toss this into the utter darkness, with a little private note, to remind, that instead of a little corner of your shoulder to cry on, I want the whole TRIBUNE.

I'd like to sit on the Planet Mars, so as to get a good perspective of this old world, then send a telegram to the effect that I do not approve of the double standard of morals, but that would be a waste of telegram wouldn't it? Well, slowly but surely I do think we are evolving into a better and saner state of things. This warped view of morals has done more harm and brought great unhappiness into countless lives. Men, because of the privileges and indulgences granted them have in many instances become conceited and ruthless, and for this, women have often had to pay with broken hearts and lives sadly disillusioned. Men have desecrated love, have dragged it through the mire to their hearts' content,—knowing that their actions are stamped with the approval of the world in general. But let a woman [illegible] and the world's up in arms crying for vengeance and she is cast down, when perhaps all the time down in her heart she is good. God created women with soul, mind, body and desires just as he created men, so it is consistent and just that both be judged by one and the same standard. Oh! Jerry, why is it? Am I wrong and immoral in feeling as I do about this? I have seen so much unhappiness as the outcome of it all. The great army of intolerant, psalm-singing, holier-than-thou people, who go to make up so much of this world serve their purpose in that they make the others who are kinder, seem even more wonderful, by way of contrast.

HELEN.

How you could possibly be "wrong or immoral" in your belief that there is something very inconsistent in maintaining two distinct standards of moral conduct for [illegible] quite understand. They have the same old world through which to travel, the same battles to fight, the same victories to win. Why, then, in the name of justice and common sense, not the same standards of decency?

Proposal for the Application of The Principle

Would not the application of the "Love-one-another" principle to problems of marriage and divorce do much toward their solution? A "Mother and Widow" believes so most emphatically. For she, too, believes in mixing religion up a bit with her daily living. Here are her answers from that standpoint to "Still Trying," who was four times married and divorced, Eighteen and Suffering Heart.

Dear Jerry:

I have been long an interested reader of your columns and have often felt like answering some questions asked through them, but you have given them as good, so keep up the good work. In this case of Sunday's letter, June 29, I would like to answer Still Trying. She says she left her home at thirteen. Of course, we cannot judge of her life there, but has she done anything to show that her better knowledge of life has broadened her mind? So far, she has only to show four homes left desolate, four men bereft of wife, children, for really that is what makes up the home. Did she really try to make good, give up all self into her husband's keeping?—for that is really marriage. Did she study his idiosyncrasies, give up some pleasures that would not interfere with health and which only displeased him, give in to some expressed wish not wrong in itself? Was she willing to be unselfish to go fifty-fifty, or did she wish to be the whole hundred?—We do not know.

As it is, it seems she flitters along with the same longing to go, go, go, as when at thirteen. She says she needs the stimulant of contact with the opposite sex; that in itself confesses her selfishness. She only seeks her happiness, without giving a serious thought to what she is doing. She may mean well, and in the first step or two, one could forgive her, but is she not going too far? She is not giving to the world any noble example through [illegible] of the world. I think if she left stimulants (men) alone for awhile and joined some great relief work of women, or went as nurse into some hospital where she could see for herself the dark side of life, helped to assuage some suffering heart encourage some dying soul into looking for some higher power, she herself would find real happiness in life.

At the rate she is going, how many more is she going to add to her string? Does she not know that many nice girls do not like to marry divorced men? So she is spoiling some lives, and a wrong done to others can never be the right thing to do. This also should be kept in mind—to "do unto others as you would that they should do unto you." A good old maxim, and if followed up, very many of the troubles of life would fade away.

Now, in answer to her point of view on divorced husbands and wives keeping on friendly terms and not hating each other, one can quickly answer that One should not hate another, for our Divine Savior Jesus taught us to love one another. But why remain on friendly terms? If a couple could not live together, make good while they had the power to do so, should they mar their own lives and the lives of husbands or wives who may be faithfully trying to love and make good where they failed? There is always a little jealousy even of an old sweetheart, whose love has long since waned. Then how much more of those who have lived on such intimate terms as man and wife. No my friends, indifference is the best mode of treatment. Even if you have a shock or a thrill when meeting, forget it. It's the best policy and safest, for in this case, "If they be not good or fair to me, what care I how good they be." If there are children to be seen, provide a meeting place for them.

About the friend of Still Trying, with her man and seven children, who married about the same time and who is still living in ignorance, may she not be the nobler woman carrying her cross patiently, raising her children with love? For where there are children, there is always [illegible] an outsider's point of view they do look like wild animals at play and half starved, untrained, dirty with the soil of earth which will wash out, may theirs not be the happier lot. For, even if father and mother are very ignorant, will not the children go to our schools to be educated? Do not they have greater ways of getting knowledge now than did Lincoln and others of our really great and noble men who came from very humble homes? Maybe he did think his mother cruel when she deprived him of the candle to read by, after getting his book and being so anxious to read it. So did we feel when years agone we stuffed our keyholes and darkened our windows so we could read our novels, so hard to get then. But did we rebel when deprived of them? Oh, no, it was authority that ruled and we had but to obey.

It is in the adversities and troubles of life that we learn to be nobler men and women. We are sometimes low-hearted as our young friend Eighteen, for the sin of which she has repented [illegible] forgiveness. Be[illegible] He has forgiven for she is sorry and has asked for it. But the world is more cruel, and especially the one who, with no honesty or honor, led you into it. But he is your husband, and that answers all other questions. His folks will in time forget it and if you so live as to show them you can make good, let him laugh and enjoy himself in that wrong way for a while. He will soon find that the world's good opinion stands for something, and he who laughs last laughs best.

Another one says that religion should be kept for the home or to one's self, but that is not so. We should speak it, act it, live it for that was what the Savior of Mankind came to teach—the lesson of life. He empowered the rough fishermen to go forth and teach to others what He had himself taught them. We are following in His steps, and if we pray to Him, with faith he will surely hear us.

I also have a word to say to Suffering Heart. Keep up heart, friend, and don't give up—a coward's way at that. If he does not make your walks pleasant, go alone out into nature's art or read a good book, and if he does admire girls' legs or figures let him do it, laugh with him. A little ridicule does more than anger. He may only do it to tease you, for he knows you resent it, and not having the almighty dollar he cannot go much further. And you are the wife.

Now, Jerry, forgive if I have tired you. Publish if you think it worth while.

MY FAVORITE STORIES by IRVIN S. COBB

Callers Had Arrived

H. B. Barnabee, star of the famous old Bostonians opera company, was once engaged in a poker game. There was a big pot on the table, Barnabee and one other player being the only two who had not been scared out by the various raises. The two eyed each other wickedly. Barnabee's vis-a-vis took two cards on the draw, the comedian but one. The opposite man found he had not bettered the three jacks he was holding, but believed they would beat the two pair he felt Barnabee had. To bring matters to a crisis he pushed forward all the chips he had and waited inquiringly.

"Is that all you have" asked the sad-faced comedian before he looked at his hand.

"Every cent in sight."

Just then the agent of the Bostonians put his head in the door and said: "Mr. Barnabee, there is a gentleman in the parlor who wants to see you."

"Wait just a minute," said Barnabee. He carefully skinned his cards and found that he had filled the card. He turned to the man in the doorway at the same time reaching for his stake, and said calmly: "Kindly tell the gentleman at the moment I have callers."

Once there was a little girl 11 years old. Her name was Bernice, but they all called her Babe. She lived in a tent with her mother and father. They were very poor.

One day Babe went swimming. She was walking in a shallow place and she cut her foot. She went home and tied a piece of cloth around it, then she went back to take whatever it was out of the water so no one else would step on it.

When she reached the beach she began to pull on the thing, she pulled it up and found it was a tin can with something inside of it. She brought the thing home and her father said it was a waterproof bag. He opened it and found a paper with odd writings on it. He studied the paper and found that it meant to go 12 feet left of the beach and dig down six feet.

The next morning he went 12 feet left of the beach and dug six feet down. Then he struck a tunnel and he went down in it. It went a long way in the dark and then it came to a room that looked like a basement because it had many things stored in it.

Babe's father found a long flight of stairs and he went up them. He came into a room and started to walk around. He found it was a house and he found two richly dressed people dead.

He took them to the nearest town and the detectives said they and their house were buried when the volcano erupted.

Babe's father took all the money and the valuable things. He had a house built in the city and he put all the good things in it to make it nice and comfortable. He and his family moved to the city and Babe had all she wanted because they were rich.

In a cold, dark room a faint candle light burned, revealing a little curly haired boy digging away on a table.

"I'll find it," he murmured. "I remember this table." He paused for a moment as [illegible] steps were heard. The boy blew out his candle and darted under the table. The door opened; in came a woman carrying a lantern. The light of the lantern showed a ugly, hard face. Her streaming hair hung on her shoulders.

"Who's here?" she cried.

No answer; the boy held his breath.

The woman searched the room with the help of her lantern. Luckily she did not look under the table. At last when she was gone, Lewis, the boy, came out from under the table and resumed his work. In his small, bony hand, he held a knife. With the knife he was chipping wood on the table. Suddenly he found a drawer and with the aid of the knife he opened it. With trembling fingers he took out a large envelope. As he unfolded a big piece of paper, something fell in his lap. He picked it up. It was a picture of a beautiful young lady. Hurriedly he began to read the letter.

The door opened; the woman came in.

"Lewis! What are you doing here?" she cried.

"I am not Lewis; I am Junior Gray." He held up the letter.

"What's that?" The woman took the letter and read it.

"It means I'm not your boy but Mrs. Gray's boy."

"At last you have found your real parents," said the woman. "I've always wondered who they were, ever since we found you, many years ago, by the river." She dried a tear.

"But how did you know the papers were in this table?"

"I remembered," was the reply. "It's the only thing I can remember."

"It's lucky Mrs. Gray gave us this table," remarked the woman, putting the letter and picture in the envelope. She took her lantern and with her hand in the boy's, they left the cold, bare room, which once more led a lonely orphan to the home of its parents.

Tom and Carl packed their grips, and planned to leave the following morning on the train which left at 5 a. m., for the farm. My but we are lucky, said both boys together, as they got on the train. They reached their uncle's farm at 5:30 p. m. Their Uncle Jake was glad to see them. Jake had a hired man named Bill, and he was only a young boy. "Show the boys around the place, while I get supper," said Uncle Jake. Bill took Tom and Carl outside, and showed them a lake about a quarter of a mile from the house. "Now I will show you the new motor boat," said Bill. "Oh, Boy! That's a peach," said the boys. "Supper! Supper!" yelled Uncle Jake. The boys hastened to the house, leaving Bill behind to lock the boat up. Having been satisfied the boys went to bed dreaming of the things they would do next day. Next morning they arose very early had breakfast, told their lovely dreams, and went out for a ride in the boat. All went fine until they heard a cry for help. It was a lady's voice, too. Carl jumped from the lower deck into the water, saying, "hold on to my back; don't get excited, and I will get you to shore safely." When Carl had the lady on shore, he went back to the boat to get some dry clothes, and told Tom of his experience as a life-saver. They then turned toward home, and told Uncle Jake all about the fun and experience. Uncle Jake laughed and said, "Come to your dinner. You must be hungry; you left and forgot your lunch." The boys rested that evening, and about 9 o'clock that night Uncle Jake asked the boys to go out and fasten the chickens. On their way to the chicken house they heard a voice. "What are you doing here?" The boys were frightened but said nothing. "Oh! It's you, is it?" said the voice again. "Well, I am the lady who you rescued, and I came over to give you something for being so brave." The boys fastened the chickens and took the lady to the house. After they reached the house and gave the lady an introduction to Uncle Jake and Bill then opened the box very quickly which she gave them. "Just the thing," said Carl, "we will need this to rescue some one else instead of getting our clothes wet. It is a bathing suit."

The boys had a lovely vacation and went home on the fifth week. Their bathing suits came in very handy because they rescued many other helpless people. After they were home a few days they wrote Uncle Jake a lovely big letter thanking him for the lovely time they spent with him and hoped they may have the pleasure of having him come to their home in the city where he could see many [illegible].

Once upon a time there was a man. His name was Jack Edwards. He was a cowboy. He could ride a horse very good. His boss owned a big cattle ranch in Texas, but there was some rustlers who came down from a big mountain and stole lots of Mr. Nut's cattle (the name of the boss). Mr. Nut said he would give a big reward for the capture of these rustlers dead or alive. So Jack said he would try, so that night he got on his horse and rode up the steep mountain where the rustlers lived. They lived in a big cave, so Jack came to the mouth of the cave and went in. He heard lots of men talking. They were planning to get more horses from Mr. Nut. Put Jack came in and said, "Hands up!" Every one put their hands up and Jack marched them down the mountain and to Mr. Nut's ranch. Jack won the reward. It was $5000, and Jack married the rancher's daughter Helen. They lived happy ever after.

Dan, her foster-brother, visits her.

CHAPTER XXII

Dan Makes Up His Mind

Dan watched his foster-sister keenly during the rest of that day and during the long, sweet summer Sunday that followed, and as he watched, misgivings and doubts that he could not quite define took possession of his soul. She was brilliant, beautiful, admirably poised and sane with everyone else. But with Alan she seemed another being, restless, exacting, capricious, eager—he knew not what to make of her.

Feverishly bright, acutely sensitive, almost quiveringly responsive, she seemed to live for the moments they were together. It was not jealousy, Dan saw, not jealousy in the sordid usual sense, at least.

Rather was it a passionate tenacity, a passionate tendency to monopolize him, to be the first to catch the drift of what he was saying, to win his praise, to interest him, to enter into not only what he was doing, but what he was thinking and feeling.

Dan had a hundred instances of this to note, even in a two-days' visit. He saw her pathetic desire to hold close the past; that dramatic past that had been so memorably bright.

"Look here, Dan," she said, over her photograph books. "See—that's Naples! Look at me, with the old pigeon-seller. My dear, that was such a morning! But, Danny, that whole trip—from the very day we went on board the steamer in Brooklyn—I wish I could live it all over again! We had Cordelia—do you remember her? We had Cordelia and Betty-Lou, such a baby, they had to be up from Washington the day before, and Alan and I had only been married a week."

"Things couldn't stay at that pitch, Chris," Dan offered, uncertainly.

"Ah, but that's just what I tell people—they could!" she persisted brightly. "And do you wonder that, having had all that I find it a little hard to go every Tuesday to the Tuesday Card club?" she asked him. "Paris, Dan—and Spain! I can't wait to get back!"

Dan felt as if he had taken out a scalpel, and had been frightened by the bright shining look of the steel, and had put it back again. But in the next forty-eight hours he came to the conclusion that since there was no one else he must be the one to hurt her.

What partly determined him was a conversation he and Alan and Chrissie had that evening.

They were dining late, they three alone, at home, and Dan had had fresh evidence of the beauty and harmony of their lives. Alan had come home weary and happy, from his day on the links, to bathe and sleep. The children had been delicious and amusing and Dan had heard parents and children laughing and shouting together, when Alan awakened refreshed and hungry, at 7.

Half an hour later he and Chrissie came downstairs in the sweet sunset light, their arms linked. And Dan thought he had never seen her in such unearthly beauty; she was in opaque white draperies.

Her mood seemed exquisite, too, all softness, affection, content. She ate little, spoke little, supervised their meal in a sort of dreamy sweetness. And afterward, on the terrace where big, softly-gold lanterns rivalled the rising red summer moon, and where the shadows shifted and grew sharper, she spoke to Alan of her plan.

"I'll tell you some pleasant news, Doctor Monteagle. I've decided that I can't live much longer without seeing Spain! Beauties, yes, and Rio, some day. But Spain's nearest! Do you realize that I'm seriously planning to plant Cilly and the baby in beloved Paris and cruise through Spain!"

"Spain? But when?"

"December. December to February or March, say!"

"H'm!" the doctor said, as if amused.

"No, but what do you think of it, Alan?" Chris demanded, imperiously.

"Think of it?" he echoes, after a pause. "Why, I'm for it, if you want to go! It might do you a world of good. I'm not so sure of Paris for Jefty—he's better off on this side. If you could get Willa Bennet, or Mary Huntington to go with you, why not leave the kids with me? Cilly——"

Chris had straightened herself, and was erect in the gloom, her wide eyes upon his face.

"Alan! You don't see me going without you?" she exclaimed, in a voice of utter protest.

"My dear Chris, you couldn't get me to Spain this December with a charge of dynamite!" Alan assured her.

Chris was silent a few seconds. Then she said confidently and [illegible]

"Alan, think, of the fun! The steamer and the strange places! Just you and me——"

"I'll go to Spain with you some day," Alan promised her, cheerfully, "when Betty-Lou is married!"

She said nothing more then. But late that night, putting her hand suddenly upon his shoulder, she said to her husband passionately:

"Ah, Alan, I can't bear to believe that it's all over! The happy time—the young time! I mean when your telephoning to me meant the difference between heaven and hell—I'm happy now. I've everything in the world to make me so! But that old feeling—that thrill—the excitement of it, and the joy of it——"

"You're a goose, Chris," Alan said, smiling. "Wasn't that a nice dinner, and a nice talk with old Dan tonight?" he asked. "It seemed to me the moonlight and the garden were particularly—nice!"

He took out his watch, winding it, and half-smiling as he talked.

"What did you and Danny talk about when I came upstairs? Me?"

"Never mentioned you!"

"Oh, Alan, don't be so horrid!" His face was abstracted.

"Say, by George!" he said suddenly conscience-stricken. "I told that poor kid I'd telephone at 10 o'clock——!"

He snatched a telephone from his dresser, and everything else but the matter in hand was blotted from the world, as his handsome, concerned face bent over the instrument.

"Kate? My dear girl, I am sorry——This is Alan. I completely forgot——! How is it working? Did he get to sleep?"

Then Chris saw his expression change. He looked stricken.

"My God, my dear! I wouldn't have had this happen for a million dollars! Poor kid——! No, no, I'll come right over. Oh, ten minutes, five minutes! Tell him I'm coming. And you didn't call me—I don't call that friendship! I don't, Kate—it isn't like you. All right! Be right over!"

Absorbed, brisk, oblivious of her very existence, he had kissed her and was gone.

Of this particular conversation between husband and wife Dan, of course, could know nothing. But he knew enough, when the next evening, his last with her, arrived, to feel no hesitation in what he had to say.

Uncle Wiggily

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BIRD KITE

Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy and Uncle Wiggily were sitting on the sands of the seashore one day, when the rabbit gentleman looked down the beach where Sammie and Susie Bushytail, the rabbit children, were playing. Not far away Curly and Floppy Twistytail, the piggie boys, were having fun.

"I must get me one of those," said Uncle Wiggily, with a twitch of his left ear.

"One of what?" asked Nurse Jane. "Do you mean you are going to get some of the bean bags Sammie and Susie are playing with?"

"No, but a kite like the one the little pigs are flying," said Uncle Wiggily, for Curly and Floppy were running about the sand, and in the air, over their heads, darted something like a big red bird.

"You don't mean to say you are going to get a bird kite; are you?" asked the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"Yes, I am," answered the funny gentleman, "I know a place on the seashore boardwalk where a dog gentleman sells kites from China. Some are made in the shape of animals and some look like big birds. Curly and Floppy have a bird kite and I'm going to get one."

"But—the idea! I never heard of such a thing!" cried Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, "that a gentleman like you wanting to fly a kite!"

"I'm not old!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "At least I don't feel old. And, anyhow, it's a bird kite with wings, a tail and everything!"

"What difference does that make—because it's a bird kite?" Nurse Jane wanted to know.

"Oh, lots of difference!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "Why, in China, old men, and even old rabbits, I suppose, fly bird kites. So if they do it in China I can do it here. Anyhow, I'm going to!"

When Uncle Wiggily spoke like that Nurse Jane knew there was little use in saying anything more. But when the rabbit gentleman came back from the boardwalk store with a big, red bird kite, having flapping wings, a tail and everything—the muskrat lady just sniffed with her nose, indifferent-like and contemptuous.

"Now, I'm going to fly my bird kite," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Don't think I'm going to look at you!" sniffed Nurse Jane. "I think you're too silly for anything!"

She pretended to be reading a book as she sat under a sun umbrella on the beach. All of a sudden Nurse Jane felt something pulling at her long tail, and, glancing down, she saw the big sea Lobster that once had tried to pinch Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh! Oh!" screamed Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, as the Lobster waved his big claws at her. "Save me, Wiggy! Save me!"

Uncle Wiggily was far down the beach, but he heard Nurse Jane's cry. Quickly the rabbit gentleman tossed his bird kite up in the air. He held it by a long string. The wind caught in the wings of the toy—in the big red wings. Straight for the Lobster flew Uncle Wiggily's bird kite. The Lobster, who was just going to pinch Nurse Jane, saw the kite coming. He thought it was a real bird.

"Oh, don't let the eagle get me! Don't take me up in your claws, Mr. Eagle!" gargled the Lobster. "I'll be good. I won't hurt Nurse Jane! I'll crawl back into the ocean!"

And he did—being frightened by Uncle Wiggily's bird kite.

"Well, Nurse Jane, are you all right now?" asked the bunny, as he hopped up the sand, winding in his kite string.

"Yes, thank you," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "And you may fly that red bird as much as you like, Wiggy!"

"Thank you!" laughed the bunny uncle. And, like the old men of China, he flew his kite. So if the goldfish doesn't flap its tail and splash water on the face of the clock, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's pocketbook.

BEING ORGANIZED

Organization is a wonderful thing and unity is strength and all that. "Getting Together" and "Cooperation" are frightfully important. They must be, everybody says so.

Men used to like it better than women did—they always were dabs at it. In fact, I can remember when it was an accepted moan that women couldn't organize, couldn't cooperate, poor things, and so could never get anywhere.

Something seems to have happened to us since then. Never a day passes but what somebody wants to organize me into something. And, being a newspaper person and therefore regarded as an "influence," when I can't be collectively organized they just go and make me a complimentary member any way.

So although I haven't joined a thing, never pay dues to any sort of a club or association, behold me an honorary member of 37 clubs or organizations or committees. I always wriggle and squirm, but I have jolly well got to be organized, so there.

Somebody considers that the community can be elevated by singing. Well, that's all right.

Everything Now Is Organized

Singing Master Makes Wise Cracks

I make all sorts of jolly noises when I am working 'round the house. But oh dear no, that won't do. I must join something and sing selected tunes with a group and sing what everyone else sings, under the guidance of a strenuous gentleman who conducts the singing, and stops us in the middle to make wise cracks. Solo singing in privacy, like making the beds to "Oh, dry those tears" or "Every morn I bring thee violets," or sweeping to "What are the wild waves saying" or recklessly independent things, like that, isn't enough. One must be organized and sing when and what everybody else sings to be a good cooperating citizen.

Everybody organizes for everything in our town. And when there isn't anything else to organize for we just organize to "get together." And we are very suspicious about any cat that wants to walk by its wild lone. If we are really nice, chummy cats with a proper passion for organization, we wear buttons, ribbons, pins, and all sorts of labels telling the world what a lot of things we have been organized into.

Maybe if they would always let me be president of the thing I wouldn't be so reluctant about it. But there is always some masterful organizer who has that all fixed. My job is just to be organized and obey rules and attend meetings and wear buttons and cooperate in the program and chip in my donations and make a speech if I am asked to upon a subject and express views that all the rest of the organized darlings can amiably subscribe to. If my speeches aren't appropriately "organized," too, if I say something reckless that I wasn't exactly organized to say, I am a suspicious character, altogether too dashed independent.

Every possible branch of every trade or profession is organized in our city. Even mine, twice over—a league of penwomen and a press club. But a few cats who wanted to walk by their wild tune don't belong. We used to meet for lunch once a week and wallow in our wild unorganized independence. No programmes, no loyalties, no dues—and we could all talk at once if we wanted to and no one need listen. It was so jolly. Then a new newspaper girl breezed into town. She was simply shocked to discover that we weren't organized with a fine nucleus like that for a brand new organization!

So I have just received a letter. She has constituted herself organizer and the next meeting is to discuss proceedure of organization . . . and select officers and a name and fix dues and . . . Oh, I don't want to play anymore. I am so tired of that game. I will be a cat that walks by its wild lone, so there.

I won't be organized, I won't, I won't.

Eh, what's that? They will let me be the first president . . . oh, very well, maybe I will just go to that first meeting.

BUREAU OF INFORMATION

"Will you tell me in the column of The TRIBUNE Information Bureau what . . . the United States came from?"

Among the anthropologists there is a great difference of opinion as to where the American Indians came from, but the majority seem to think that they came from Asia and are of the Mongolian race. Others claim that they were originally from Europe. As the American Indians have been in America for thousands of years it is not definitely known where they originated.

"Was Beau Brummel a real or fictitious character?"

Beau Brummel was George Bryan Brummel, born in England in 1778 and so called because he was the leader of fashionable London society at the time and an intimate friend of George I . . .

"I would like a little information regarding the planet Mars which . . . on account of being so near the earth."

Mars, the first of the superior planets, is the planet next outside the earth in the solar system. According to astronomers its diameter is about 4300 miles, which is about twenty-eight hundredths that of the earth. It is estimated to be 141,500,000 miles from the sun. Its day is half an hour longer than ours. Its year is 687 of our days.

The surface of Mars has been carefully mapped and is characterized by the predominance of land and the great number of canals. It can easily be placed in the heavens on account of its color, which is strikingly red. It will be nearest the earth for many years August 22.

How to Write 'Local Lafs'

By the Local Laf Editor

Man's feelings and foolishness are very aptly expressed in the following bit of philosophy.

Men climb trees to shake down fruit when the fruit will fall anyhow.

Men go to war to kill each other when if they would wait long enough the others would die.

Men run after women when if they did not women would soon run after them.

Great is the folly of man.

Man loves the things that are not good for him. If we receive this falling from . . . a real sarcastic . . . finding viewpoint humor can be drained from the story . . . son Beresford . . . going to sleep on . . . suddenly began telling about a trip through a field where he saw . . . pigs with yellow eyes and long horns sprouting out of their foreheads. An attempt was made to park the machine, and it was wedged in between the car and the automobile of Harry Henning, 1717 Mandana avenue Oakland Both automobiles were demolished, but no one was hurt

When the brakes on a machine driven by Harry Jones last evening failed to hold on a hill at Lincoln and Crocker avenues, Piedmont, the machine crashed into a pole and injured Mrs Nellie Jones, 31, 4426 Penniman avenue, and Mrs. J. 2211 Broadway
FRIDAY, AUGUST 15

The spacious dining room of the Key Route Inn has been entirely renovated and converted into one of the finest Dairy Lunch System of Self Service in Oakland. The opening of this second food palace is quite significant of the popularity of Foster's Good Things to Eat in Oakland—their other location now being at 1319 Broadway.

Only the finest quality of foods will be served and the same high standard will be maintained with a few added new features, which include a Sunday Chicken Dinner.

THE "BEST BY TEST" LEAVENER IS CALIFORNIA'S PREFERENCE

CALIFORNIA has a preference when it comes to baking powder—sales prove that. Although there are any number of other brands, the women of this State almost solidly favor

CALUMET

THE WORLD'S GREATEST

BAKING POWDER

Many housewives after one trial of Calumet were convinced that baking powder is the most important ingredient used in baking.

Foods that are properly leavened are nutritious and healthful. Guard your health by the continued use of Calumet.
